VIRUS VARIANT WITH UNUSUALLY HIGH MUTATION COUNT FOUND

B.1.1.529 has been found in South Africa, Botswana & Hong Kong; the Centre has asked states to test travellers from these places

UNFAMILIAR MUTATIONS SPARK CONCERN

The new coronavirus variant has at least 32 spike mutations, compared to 16 for Delta. It may not just spread more efficiently, but might be able to get around parts of the immune system, said researcher Richard Lessells. Some of the mutations are also unfamiliar to scientists. So far the variant has been seen spreading especially among young people, reports said

ORIGINS IN UNTREATED HIV PATIENT?

- The variant could have evolved during the chronic infection of a person with compromised immunity, which can prolong infection
- The variant has also been found in Botswana and Hong Kong among travellers from South Africa, as per authorities. World Health Organization officials have met to discuss B.1.1.529 | P9,16

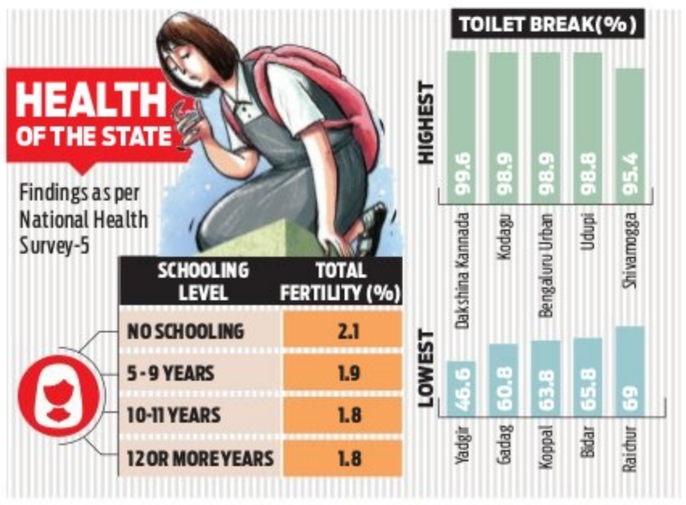
Domestic violence rose during Covid, reveals survey



RANJANI MADHAVAN @ Bengaluru

THE latest National Health Survey-5 has revealed that domestic violence against married women and sexual violence against young women have increased in Karnataka, compared to the previous survey findings. From 20.6 per cent, the prevalence of spousal violence against women aged between 18 and 49 years has risen to 44.4 per cent. The ratio of young women, aged between 18 and 29, who experienced sexual violence by age 18, also shot up from 10.3 per cent to 11 per cent.

Women in the state experienced domestic violence in the form of being slapped, pushed, shaken, having something thrown at them, arms twisted, hair pulled, being kicked, dragged, beaten up, punched with a fist or something that could hurt her, choked or burnt, the report stated.

The experience of spousal violence is slightly higher among women in rural areas (49 per cent) than in urban areas (48 per cent).

"Eight per cent of married women in the age group of 18-49 reported that their husbands physically forced them to have sex even when they did not want to, and 6 per cent reported that their husband forced them with threats or in some other way to perform sexual acts they did not want to," the survey noted.

Domestic violence increased, especially during the pandemic, with husbands out of work and spending more time at home, said Mamatha Yajaman, a core group member of the NGO Gamana Mahila Samooha which works with survivors of violence.

"In some cases, violence meted out by the husband is habitual. In other cases, it happens when he is under the influence of alcohol. We have observed that the police are often not helpful, with the entire system functioning in a patriarchal manner. Owing to this, women do not get justice even if they come forward to complain," Mamatha said.

Congress becomes pawn in TMC's pan-India plans

Political observers point out that by upstaging the grand old party in Meghalaya, the Trinamool Congress is indirectly helping the BJP

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

WITH 12 of the 17 Congress MLAs in Meghalaya joining the Trinamool Congress (TMC) overnight, the grand old party appears to have become the biggest victim of the Mamata Banerjee-led party's ambition of becoming a pan-India rival to the Bharatiya Janata Party.

After its hard-fought victory in West Bengal early this year, the TMC is on an acquisition spree to draw disgruntled leaders from other parties, mostly Congress. By doing so, it is virtually hijacking the political space hitherto occupied by the grand old party.

The TMC had already set its sights on BJP-ruled Tripura and Goa to expand its base outside Bengal. Meghalaya is the latest addition to the list. The late-night coup in Shillong relegated the Congress to a smaller party and effectively made the TMC the state's main opposition party. The development comes 14 months ahead of the Assembly polls in Meghalaya, which is ruled by a coalition of parties headed by the National People's Party, a BJP ally.

Infighting in the Congress, especially after Shillong MP Vincent H Pala took over as the state unit chief two months ago, is said to have triggered the dramatic developments on Wednesday night. Former chief minister Mukul Sangma was the sole contender for the CM post in case the Congress returns to power in 2023 and he felt threatened by Pala's appointment as PCC chief.

Congress insiders in the state admitted the TMC had dealt a body blow to the party facing a depleting popularity ever since the BJP's emergence as a powerhouse nationwide in 2014.

Political observers, however, pointed out that by targeting the Congress, the TMC is indirectly helping the BJP.

As regards Goa, the TMC's entry would hurt only the Congress as the BJP has its vote bank intact. Similarly, the TMC is trying to make inroads into Tripura at the expense of the Congress and the Left parties. Thursday's civic election in the state was its launch pad.

Mamata's much-hyped meeting with Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Wednesday and her not calling on Congress chief Sonia Gandhi is to be seen in the above context. P9

'Congress failed as Oppn'

On Thursday, former CM Mukul Sangma justified his decision to switch sides saying the Congress was failing as an opposition party and that TMC could be the pan-India alternative to the BJP. "We looked at available options and reached out to people and friends," he told reporters

Centre agrees to review ₹8L EWS cap for NEET

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Centre on Thursday told the Supreme Court that it is ready to revisit the ₹8 lakh annual income criteria for the Economically Weaker Sections (EWS) reservation category.

The government assured the apex court Bench, led by Justice D Y Chandrachud, that the National Eligibility-cum-Entrance Test (NEET-PG) counselling would be deferred for four weeks till a decision was taken on the EWS quota.

The submission came in a case filed by NEET aspirants challenging a July 29 notification announcing 27% quota for Other Backward Class (OBC) and 10% reservation for EWS in the All India Quota (AIQ) category.

Senior Advocate Arvind P Datar, appearing for the petitioners (students), suggested that the implementation of the EWS could be postponed to next academic year, as the admissions for this year are already delayed.

The Bench, which also comprised Justices Surya Kant, and Vikram Nath, asked the Solicitor General if the implementation of the constitutional amendment could be pushed to he next academic year.

"What happens is that we are at the end of November. Suppose you complete it by the end of December and then implementation etc and then the terms would begin only sometime in February-March. Two months, the students are losing the time. This is something you may want to consider," Justice DY Chandrachud questioned Mehta. He replied that it might be a difficult proposition as the Government wants to take steps as per the constitutional amendment providing for economic reservation.

Justice Kant said, "The EWS quota is a very enabling and progressive kind of reservation and all States should support the Centre in its endeavour".

The Bench said that the only question is that determination of the category should be in a scientific manner and it appreciates that the Centre has taken a decision to revisit the criteria earlier fixed.

NO POTENTIAL DEFERMENT FOR OBC QUOTA

While a possible deferment of the EWS quota is being discussed, Advocate Shashank Ratnoo, appearing on behalf of some OBC candidates, requested that the application of reservation to OBC students should not be deferred as the Centre is planning to revisit the EWS criteria. The Bench said that it has not said anything on OBC students and is not disposing of the petition

Raided officials have at least 4 times more illegal assets

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Anti-Corruption Bureau (ACB) sleuths, who raided 15 government officials on Wednesday and unearthed disproportionate assets worth several crores of rupees, have found that some of them had amassed wealth 400-500 per cent disproportionate to their known sources of income. Among those raided, the assets of a former Project Director of Nirmithi Kendra, estimated at Rs 18.20 crore, was found to to be disproportionate by more than 879 per cent.

The officials of the anti-corruption agency had seized valuables such as cash, gold, silver, vehicles and had also found documents related to properties during the search and seizure operation on Wednesday. Sources said that the value of the seized items was estimated even as further investigation such as opening of bank lockers continued on Thursday. The estimation was done based on documents produced by the accused officials and information gathered from various sources. As per the estimates, Vasudev R N, the former Project Director of Nirmithi Kendra in Bengaluru Rural, has assets worth Rs 18,20,63,868, which is 879.53 per cent disproportionate to his known sources of income. The ACB teams had searched six locations connected to Vasudev and had found documents related to five houses and eight residential sites in Bengaluru, four houses in Sompura of Nelamangala talulk, 10.20 acres of agricultural land in Nelamangala and Magadi taluks, 850 gm of gold, 9.5 kg of silver, Rs 15 lakh in cash and household articles worth Rs 98 lakh. WAR AGAINST NATURE

Smaller animals in poachers' sights

CRIMES IN THE WILD PART 2

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

DISTURBING trends are coming to the fore as regards wildlife crimes. Smugglers and poachers, in cahoots with locals, now prefer to target smaller protected terrestrial and aquatic animal species and their products over larger species like wild cats and herbivores. From skins of animals like tigers, leopards and deer, poachers have now shifted focus to products derived from smaller animal species.

Wildlife experts are convinced about this while noting an increased frequency of abandoned bags with small animal species, left behind when pursued by law enforcement agencies. "In the period from the late 1990s to 2013, many cases of poachers with pelts of tigers, leopards and other wild animals were traced. Now, gradually this has shifted to small turtles, tortoises, pangolins and other smaller species. Over the last few years, we have even seen a rise in cases of aquatic species being targeted," a wildlife crime expert informed The New Indian Express. "This is evident from the increased number of cases of smaller protected animal species being found stacked in gunny bags, suitcases, shoulder bags and other luggage."

Sleuths of the Wildlife Crime Control Bureau have pointed out that the number of cases of Ambergris (a solid waxy substance which comes from the intestine of the sperm whale, a protected aquatic species) has also increased over the last few years.

Cases of ambergris smuggling from coastal areas of Karnataka, Tamil Nadu, Andhra Pradesh and Kerala are also rising. Despite this, there is no strict vigil in lesser known coastal areas, which are used by smugglers to move ambergris, which is very expensive and in much demand in the perfume-making industry. P7

Citizens want land details in public domain

Home buyers not likely to purchase flats on lake beds; for RERA registration, title report of 15 yrs should be uploaded

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

IN the wake of recent floods in the city, and water gushing into layouts and apartment complexes, citizens are now demanding that builders and government agencies make public land details of each residential and commercial space, so prospective buyers are clear about the apartments or houses coming up.

"I had put all my money into purchasing a house in Bengaluru, but because of severe flooding, I have suffered a lot of damage. I am not keen to stay here any more. Once the situation returns to normal, I will go back to my home town. I have also applied for a transfer and am looking for jobs back home," said Shruthi (name changed), a resident of Rainbow Drive apartment which often gets flooded.

This is not the only apartment complex, and Shruthi is not the only one who has suffered. Recently, Kendriya Vihar Apartment complex in Yelahanka experienced severe flooding due to overflowing lakes and storm water drains. Many layouts in Bengaluru also experienced flooding.

Ravichandra Reddy, lake expert from Bengaluru, said if an apartment buyer knows the complex is built on a lake bed or encroaches a storm water drain, there is fear whether the property will be demolished or land in legal problems. Thus, every builder should declare land details of the property and status of the site.

He pointed out that development is essential, but now citizens have realised that it cannot be at the cost of the environment, and the government should also understand this. Over the years, many layouts, apartments and commercial complexes have come up on buffer zones of lakes and drains, and even on them.

M S Shankar, General Secretary, Forum for People's Collective Efforts, said as per rules, for Real Estate Regulatory Authority (Rera) registration in Karnataka or anywhere in India, the legal title report of 15 years of land details where the property stands, should be uploaded on public domain only after it is verified and certified by an advocate with 10 years experience. But builders and Rera-K do not pay attention to it.

Kishore Chandra, Rera-K Chairman, said buyers go by BBMP sale and title deed documents. The land title should be clear and Rera-K also checks for this. Despite repeated attempts, BBMP Town Planning officials were not available for comment.

Grievances ignored, monsoon brings more struggles in senior citizen's life

DONNA EVA @ Bengaluru

DESPITE barricades and complaints, a senior citizen is facing issues of water logging and mosquito infestation in his house.

Eighty-seven-year-old Ramesh Chandrasekaran has lived on 80-feet road, HBR Layout, for almost 30 years. In 2014, the road had been raised nearly 8 feet. This has caused rainwater and litter to spread around his house each monsoon.

A few years ago, he had woken up to the lower floor of his house flooded with rainwater. Despite multiple complaints to BBMP to no avail, he built barricades at his own expense to prevent water from further inundating his residence. While there have been promises made from as far back as 2014, no action has been taken. "They kept delaying the work, citing elections or lack of money," Chandrasekaran told The New Indian Express.

After Chandrasekaran built the barricades, the issue was temporarily resolved. However, the retiree and his wife have had to deal with water seeping into openings in the compound wall. Unable to drain out because of the barricade, the water has turned stagnant, turning into a breeding ground for mosquitoes.

Chandrasekaran had escalated the issue multiple times. In a letter to the BBMP Commissioner, he highlighted the issues and the lack of action. After multiple promises, one of the ward engineers stated that the issue came under the jurisdiction of the Major Roads Division.

Due to several other issues highlighted by residents, MLA KJ George visited the area on Wednesday, when Chandrasekaran's issues were also discussed. On Thursday, Special Officer Narasimha Babu visited the property, promising that the Assistant Engineer and Assistant Executive Engineers would hold a meeting on what had to be done within the next few days.

B'LURU BEST IN DECENT WORK, GROWTH: REPORT

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

BENGALURU has been adjudged as the sole city in the 'frontrunner' category for decent work and economic growth index with a score of 79, although it is ranked 13th with a general score of 69.06 in Niti Aayog's Sustainable Development Goals Urban Index 2021 with 17 parameters.

Apart from 'Decent Work & Economic Growth', the city has found a place in the front-runner category in six other parameters — quality of education; gender equality; clean water and sanitation; affordable and clean energy; climate action; and peace, justice and strong institutions.

However, Bengaluru has been found wanting in parameters of achieving zero-hunger and industry, innovation and industry, and has been adjudged as an "aspirant".

Meanwhile, Shimla has bagged the first rank in the overall Niti Aayog SDG Urban Index 2021, with a score of 75.50, followed by Coimbatore (73.29), Chandigarh and Tiruvananthapuram (both 72.36), Kochi (72.29), Panaji (71.86), Pune (71.21), Tiruchirapalli (70.00), and Ahmedabad and Nagpur (both 69.79), in the top 10 ranks of the index.

City students to launch balloon satellite in Jan

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA @ Bengaluru

FROM finding out how a toothpaste behaves in space to gathering pollution data 100 km from the sea level, students of a city school are set for some eye-opening experiments by sending a high-altitude balloon satellite into low-Earth orbit.

Scientific payloads include a camera, radiation sensor, GPS module, a plant and a toothpaste will be on the high-altitude balloon. The equipment will collect data on pollution and radiation through sensors and cameras, and also conduct a biological experiment. Seventy students from Class 3 to 7 are involved in creating payloads for what the school hopes to launch into the stratosphere in January. The project started in August. The payload which is almost ready, will be launched into an altitude of 100 km above the sea level from Hosakote between 2 am and 4 am after getting clearance from the air traffic control, Shashank Mane, Facilitator at the Centre of Excellence, Chaman Bhartiya School, told TNIE. The test launch is already completed. He said, "Space Education and robotics are a compulsory component of their curriculum." The school has teamed up with a Bengaluru-based edu-space startup, Genex Space, he added.

Provide TCs in a week, schools told

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA @ Bengaluru

THE head teachers and principals of private unaided schools have been given a week's time to provide transfer certificates to parents seeking to transfer their wards to other schools.

In case these institutions fail to comply, parents can submit a letter to the local education official, who will then forward the same to the school administration to ensure the TC is provided in a week. If schools still fail to act, the official can then take action as per the Karnataka Education Act 1983 against the school administration and principal and ensure that the child does not lose out on academics.

The order from the Commissioner of Public Instruction, Vishal R, comes in the wake of parents being denied TCs while withdrawing their children from private unaided schools due to financial problems, wanting to admit them to aided, government or other schools. The academic year 2021-22 is half-way through, and several children have been out of academic activities since they are not formally admitted to their new schools, the commissioner observed, adding that as per the law, students should be given a TC within 15 days of application.

Educationist Niranjanaradhya VP welcomed the department's order to initiate action against erring private schools, while it has conjured sharp criticism from private schools.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

26th November : Calling all keen gardeners! Today's lunar alignments favour both fruit and root crops. Come to think of it, the same goes for cooks. I can't think just now of a good recipe which combines potatoes and strawberries, or carrots and mangoes, but there must be one! Sometimes astrology just poses more questions than it answers!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Relations with children should have improved. If there are still questions to be answered, then it may be that you've been looking in the wrong direction. Try a spot of lateral thinking. What I mean is that the solutions may lie in the most unlikely areas.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
The current phase in the lunar month is always slightly tense, but you could be surprised at how well things turn out in the end. Your whole approach will soon be vindicated, possibly when children or younger relations finally realise how right you have been.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You're not out of the woods yet so keep your guard up. It is difficult to see whether you have been battling at work or at home, but it may be both. In this case, you should aim for a well-earned rest over the coming few days. Hopefully, a pressing commitment can be shelved.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
A stunning relationship between the Sun and Jupiter suggests a moment of supreme creativity, probably affecting financial matters, foreign contacts and ethical questions, not to mention educational possibilities. It goes without saying that benefits may accrue in all these areas.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Hopefully the way is now much clearer as far as monetary issues are concerned. If you have to rectify a financial situation, or any other personal matter, spare a little time for the finer points. Plus, you're closer to the resolution of a personal dilemma than you feared, but not necessarily in the manner you thought!

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
If you need proof that you are on the right track, try asking close companions. People you live or work with day in and day out may have difficulty finding exactly the right words but, even when they're not telling the whole truth, you know what they really mean!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
No doubt you are a mite confused. This is just as it should be, for the planets favour all things mysterious and unknown. However, they are also keeping you hard at work, so there is no time to muddle around! If a partner tries meddling in matters which are none of their business, then you'll be forced to redefine your boundaries.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Let things take their own course and you'll save yourself all sorts of trouble. If you have a mind for your own survival, you'll leave strangers, partners, friends, lovers and acquaintances to solve their own silly quibbles! Don't let them hold you back.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You may have taken a moderate battering, but I think it's now safe to lift your head above the trenches. You may even make a few moves behind the scenes which will set you up for future prosperity. Don't bank on quick profits though, for initial impressions are bound to be misleading.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Seldom have you been in such a strong position to name your price or dictate your terms. For once you have both the facts and their deeper implications at your disposal, which means you're one step ahead of everyone else. It's all a question of finding the right way to say what you want.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
You may soon find yourself back to square one over a financial or professional matter. Actually this is a good thing, and you should also make it your goal to get back to the roots in your emotional life. Once you've established a sense of certainty, then you'll be free to experiment.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You should now begin a new emotional journey and enjoy a process of unravelling your deepest motives. Someone close may have tried your patience, but I don't think you should concern yourself with this any longer. Ultimately, they need to recognise their own problems before anyone else can help them.

Intensify vax drive, Bommai tells DCs

ENS @ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Thursday instructed district deputy commissioners to intensify the Covid-19 vaccination drive to improve the state's coverage of the second dose of vaccination.

Bommai, who held a video conference with the DCs to review the progress of the vaccination drive, said, "The state has achieved 90 per cent coverage of the first dose and the second dose coverage stands at 57 per cent. It should touch 70 per cent by December-end."

Bengaluru Urban district tops the list while Kalaburagi is at the bottom. Deputy Commissioners should devote at least one hour daily for the vaccination programme and constitute teams to visit the villages to convince people to get vaccinated, the CM said. He cautioned against any complacency in the vaccination drive in the backdrop of reduction in Covid cases. "The cases are again on the rise in many countries. We should not give scope for a third wave here," he added.

TAC wary of int'l travellers

To discuss extra precautions, but these are possible only if Centre issues norms

CHETANA BELAGERE @ Bengaluru

WITH the Indian government opening up international travel completely, Technical Advisory Committee (TAC) members in Karnataka plan to discuss extra precautions to be taken, before allowing in international travellers from countries in the midst of a very bad Covid surge. However, their hands are tied as the decision on introducing such measures is "possible only if GoI guidelines provide such provisions".

"At the recently held TAC meeting, experts felt that additional measures are needed for international arrivals in Karnataka. We have it on the agenda for discussion," said a senior doctor who is part of the committee.

The members will discuss data from countries that are currently in the grip of a Covid-19 wave. "After a devastating second wave of infections, Karnataka's vaccination rates have picked up, and the number of cases remains low. We are trying to ensure maximum coverage of the second dose of vaccination. In this scenario, clusters are being seen in some districts, so it makes sense to ensure precautionary measures are in place before letting in international travellers," the doctor said.

Some of the doctors suggested that it is not wise to reduce testing numbers. "There is definitely an increase in the number of people coming to hospital with Covid-like symptoms. But not everyone is getting tested. Despite vaccination, we are seeing breakthrough infections too, so it would make sense to increase testing numbers to detect the surge," said a renowned pulmonologist, on condition of anonymity.

Meanwhile, experts fear that with the winter break beginning in several countries, the number of people coming into the country will also go up. Also, a new mutation has been detected in an African country, Botswana -- B.1.1529 is a SARS-CoV-2 variant that has 32 mutations in its spike protein, the part of the coronavirus that infects humans.

Scientists studying this variant have said the "incredibly high number of spike mutations suggest this could be of real concern". It may infect people faster, and has already appeared in South Africa and Hong Kong. "With increased international travel, the possibility of any new variant reaching other countries may be fast. It was the same with Delta. It may pose a similar threat to both vaccinated and unvaccinated populations across continents, including India," said a renowned virologist.

However, TAC members feel helpless as the introduction such measures is possible only if government guidelines have such provision.

Meanwhile, TAC Chairman Dr M K Sudarshan said there is no risk of a spike in cases with international travellers coming into the country, if necessary precautions are taken. "There are standard protocols issued by the Central and State governments, and if duly complied with, there is no risk."

66 students, staff of Dharwad college test Covid+, hostels shut

ARUNKUMAR HURALIMATH @ Hubballi

One of the sealed hostels on the premises of SDM Medical College near Dharwad on Thursday | EXPRESS

IN a major Covid-19 outbreak in SDM Medical College near Dharwad, 66 students and a few staff members tested positive on Thursday. The district administration has sealed two hostels of the college and declared the area a containment zone. The health department will test all 400 medical students and 3,000 staffers of the medical college and hospital.

Most of the students have mild symptoms and are being treated in their hostels on the college premises near Sattur. All the infected students have been shifted to a block in the hostel, and those awaiting results have been shifted to another block. Dharwad district health officials have been deployed to keep a watch on the situation, and policemen are on duty to prevent any entry or exit at the sealed area.

Dharwad Deputy Commissioner Nitesh Patil said of the 400 students, 270 students were tested for the infection, and 66 tested positive till Thursday morning.

It is said that the college recently organised a freshers' party to welcome first-year MBBS students, and the infection might have spread subsequently. Students from other states are also studying in the college, and it is not clear how the infection spread to so many students. All the students are fully vaccinated.

Patil said disinfection and sanitation of the premises has been taken up, and food is being provided to the infected and quarantined students.

SAVING LIVES

Manipal to hold CPR workshop for gym trainers

CHETANA BELAGERE @ Bengaluru

WITH a spurt in cardiac arrest cases amongst youngsters lately, Manipal Hospitals has launched a novel initiative, wherein gym instructors and security guards will be trained in Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR), an emergency lifesaving first-aid procedure performed when the heart stops beating.

"There is a dire need to impart basic life support training to as many people as possible, because the best person to save one's life during a cardiac arrest is a bystander," said Dr Naveen Chandra, Consultant Cardiologist, Manipal Varthur Road, who along with Dr Ram Kumar Jayaprakash, consultant, Critical Care, will be holding the training.

The demise of actor Puneeth Rajkumar recently, supposedly after a workout, highlighted issues regarding the importance of gym trainers being equipped with CPR knowledge and the basic use of Automated External Defibrillator. "In the West, several thousands of lives are saved as most citizens know how to give CPR," added Dr Naveen. He explained that participants will first be taught what a heart attack is, and they will learn when and how to exactly initiate CPR on mannequins.

Govt to scrutinise tenders, examine graft charges

Move after contractors' assn wrote to PM over corruption; State forms panel headed by retired judges to study tender estimates, conditions

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE State Government will examine allegations of corruption in various departments after the Karnataka State Contractors' Association wrote to the Prime Minister and committees headed by retired judges will also look into tender estimates and conditions.

"On July 6, 2021, the Contractors Association wrote to the PM. We don't know why they wrote (to the PM). I have directed the Chief Secretary to get all issues raised by the contractors examined by heads of the concerned departments and take action if there are any irregularities," Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai told reporters on Thursday.

The association, in its letter to the PM, had alleged that there were several irregularities in awarding contracts. The Opposition Congress had alleged that they had to pay 40% commission to get the works.

"If any tenders are finalised after my government came to power, I have directed the Chief Secretary to subject them to a special scrutiny. I have already written to the Chief Secretary," he said. Bommai took over as the chief minister on July 28 two days after BS Yediyurappa resigned.

Emphasising that the State Government is committed to transparency in the administration, Bommai said as decided in the Cabinet recently, they will constitute two committees headed by retired judges to scrutinise tender estimates and tender conditions. Directives have been given to issue Government Orders to implement it immediately, he added.

> If any tenders are finalised after my government came to power, I have directed the Chief Secretary to subject them to a special scrutiny
> Basvaraj Bommai, CM

Bommai said he has directed the officials to put in a place a system to automatically raise the bills electronically, based on seniority and the projects. Tenders have to be finalised as per the schedule decided without delay as any delay would give scope for suspicion, Bommai said.Responding to a question on allegations made against the elected representatives, including ministers and MLAs, Bommai said once the tenders are scrutinised, everything will come out and it will be known if there are any irregularities. "They (the association) has not given any specific case or proof. They have written a general letter. Despite that I have ordered for an inquiry and directed to scrutinise all tenders by the department heads. What more transparency you expect?" Bommai said.

Karnataka State Contractors Association General Secretary GM Ravindra said they welcome the government's decision to get the tenders scrutinised. The government, especially the Public Works Department, is addressing the concerns and held several rounds of meetings to resolve the issues related to contractors, he added.

A Congress delegation, led by KPCC president DK Shivakumar, former CM Siddaramaiah and others, submit a memoradum to Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot in Bengaluru on Thursday

CONG SEEKS PREZ RULE IN K'TAKA

ENS@ Bengaluru

THE Congress on Thursday urged Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot to invoke the provisions of Article 356 of the Constitution and send a report for the imposition of President Rule and also order a judicial probe headed by a Supreme Court judge to look into allegations made by the contractors association.

A Congress delegation, including Leader of Opposition leader Siddaramaiah and KPCC president DK Shivakumar met Gehlot and demanded a probe into allegations made by the contractors association in its letter to the Prime Minister.

The Congress leaders urged the Governor to direct the state police to take cognisance of the allegations to register FIR against the concerned persons, and also those involved in alleged irregularities in the Bengaluru Development Authority.

Speaking to the media later, Siddaramaiah said the contractors association, in its letter, mentioned about rampant corruption in many departments. "We are demanding for a probe headed by a SC judge. The truth will not come out if the enquiry is conducted by the state chief secretary, " the former CM said responding to a question on the government decision to get the tenders examined.

Shivakumar said the association has alleged that they have to give 40% commission to get the works and the allegations are serious and hurt the state's image. The raids conducted by the Anti-Corruption Bureau also show that corruption is rampant, he said and added that the Congress party will continue to fight against it.

He said estimates of the projects have been increased, in some cases from Rs 100 crore to Rs 200 crore and they have documents to prove it.

Tender process, water projects dominate cabinet meeting

ENS@ Bengaluru

THE cabinet held a meeting at 4pm on Thursday, in the backdrop of elections to 25 Legislative Council seats. Parliamentary Affairs Minister J C Madhuswamy told the media that there would be no briefing because of the model code of conduct, and that the members had decided against it.

Sources said the cabinet deliberated on complaints of irregularities in the tender process, and decided that two committees will be set up for tender assessment and review of tender provisions, headed by a retired judge. It was also decided that the Chief Secretary would instruct heads of departments to conduct inquiries and take appropriate action if there is any lapse or error in tendering.

Drinking water and irrigation projects also dominated the meeting, sources said. Approval was given to a drinking water project for Yadgir, costing Rs 1,500 crore, two drinking water supply projects for Dakshina Kannada, costing Rs 150 crore, and another at Rs 70 crore. The cabinet also approved another irrigation-cum-drinking water scheme of Rs 985 crore. The ministers gave their nod for the 'lab to land' concept, where more than 160 Krishi Sanjeevini vans would be used to assist farmers with scientific inputs on testing water and soil, and suggest remedies for pest control.

Biradar and son kept dashing into loo, officials smelt a rat

ACB sleuths purchase trunks to keep documents, cash and ornaments seized from PWD JE of Jewargi sub-division Shantagouda Biradar, in Kalaburagi on Thursday

Anti-Corruption Bureau (ACB) sleuths who have in their possession documents, cash and ornaments in all worth Rs 4,15,12,491, seized from PWD JE of Jewargi subdivision Shantagouda Biradar, stated that he had amassed property which is 406.17 per cent more than his known sources of income. The sleuths conducted raids on Wednesday and Thursday in Kalaburagi and other places.

They arrested Biradar on Wednesday evening, after conducting fitness and Covid tests in the District Government Hospital here, and remanded him in judicial custody for 14 days.

PWD Executive Engineer Mallikarjun Jeratagi, asked if Biradar had been suspended by the department, said that ACB officials will send a report to the government, with details of illegally amassed property, and recommend suspension. Jeratagi said that so far, he has not received a report from the ACB, and added that no departmental inquiries were pending against the arrested official.

ACB officials briefed the media on how they came to know about Rs 13 lakh in cash hidden in a PVC pipe. Before they went into Biradar's house, they had been tipped off by neighbours that the money and ornaments might have been hidden in the bathroom or toilet.

When some officials were verifying documents and others were searching for cash and ornaments, they noticed that Biradar and his son were frequently going to the toilet on one pretext or other. Suspicious, they decided to check. They found a washing machine placed near the toilet, and the mouth of the PVC pipe connected to the washing machine, was covered by a stone instead of a pipe cover. They removed the stone and found cash hidden in the pipe. ACB sleuths summoned a local plumber and cut the pipe, and found over Rs 13 lakh in cash. The washing machine was not in use for over two months.

Sources said that Biradar and his son were to go to Bengaluru on Wednesday to hand over money to a middleman, to secure a job for the young man. But sleuths raided his house on Wednesday morning.

They visited State Bank of India and Canara Bank at Super Market, besides the SBI branch in Jewargi, and collected information about his bank deposits and lockers. They also purchased trunks to keep the documents, cash and ornaments, which will be kept in the treasury.

EXPRESS PLAINER

How the greasing mechanism works

The ACB raids on the BDA offices and 15 other officials have brought the issue of rampant corruption among government servants to the fore again

- Corruption is highest among government staff who have direct interaction with the public visiting government offices to get their works done
- Corruption is rampant in the Public Works Department, Irrigation Department, municipal corporations and other agencies (BBMP, Mysuru City Corporation, BDA, HDUDA, for example). Primarily, agencies which take up mega construction projects and civic works are lucrative
- Though cases of authorised signatories or Class-I officers directly demanding bribes are less, the existence of unofficial structural set-up to facilitate the flow of bribe money from the bottom to the top is common in certain government offices
- Higher-ups teach junior staff how to milk money from the public and contractors, as they get a share in the illegal earnings
- Drawing officers (staff with powers to sanction funds) expect a decent cut in each project
- Contractors can make or mar the future of junior engineers as they lure the latter to make money by corrupt means
- Junior engineers prefer working in sub-divisions compared to divisional offices as the scope for making money is higher in sub-divisions, as they help contractors prepare bills
- Commission of 20-30% on the bill is the norm and junior engineers help contractors inflate the bill so that they don't suffer. The commission varies depending on the budget of the project and the political links of the contractor
- If there is a "deficit of trust" between contractors and engineers, the former are the first to tip-off anti-corruption agencies about the money-making engineers

PWD Junior Engineer S M Biradar, who had stashed cash in a drain pipe at his Kalaburagi residence, allegedly has assets that are 406.17% disproportionate to his known sources of income. Biradar, whose assets are valued at Rs 4,15,12,491, was arrested by the ACB on Wednesday and was remanded to judicial custody for 14 days. The ACB has estimated the assets of Joint Director of Agriculture in Gadag, T S Rudreshappa, at Rs 6,65,03,782, which is 400% disproportionate.

While L C Nagaraj, Administrative Officer, Sakala Mission, has assets worth Rs 10,82,07,660, which is disproportionate by 198%, Group-D worker at a BBMP High School, G V Giri, has assets valued at Rs 6,24,03,000, which is 563.85% disproportionate to his known sources of income. While the ACB has continued the probe, the accused officials will now have to defend themselves by producing documents and explaining the source of each article seized during the raid to prove they are innocent.

Education dept rushes to bring back 15k out of school kids by month-end

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA
@ Bengaluru

AS many as 27,725 students are out of schools in the rural areas of the state and the numbers for pan Karnataka are expected to go up further. Education Department officials say that clear figures are yet to come in from the Urban Development Department (UDD) and the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP).

The department is working against the clock as district officials are said to have been given a target to mainstream all children by the end of November. The department has so far mainstreamed 11,832 children, as per official statistics from the Samagra Shikshana Karnataka (SSK) Department on Thursday.

The Education Department is compiling and cleaning data of out-of-school children, which includes those who have never been enrolled in school and those who dropped out. To trace the first category is an arduous task, admitted an official. To trace children who have never ever gone to school, ground level staff are making house-to-house visits and collecting data. Students who have dropped out are being traced through their previous schools. A senior official added that attendance officers who work at the school level also traced where the child has gone -- if found in a different school, then the database is updated. If the child is not attending school, then they are convinced to rejoin.

The action comes following PIL filed in the high court. Parallely, the Education Department is also trying to rectify the school admission stalemate by ordering private schools to provide transfer certificates to students who want to enrol in other schools.

Panchayats to trace dropouts, enrol them

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka government, which found that a large number of children had dropped out of school post lockdown, instructed members and officials from each panchayat to trace them and bring them back to school. Members were told to take up literacy for the entire panchayat and encourage adult literacy programmes as part of Gram Panchayat development. Panchayats now give additional food or snacks with midday meals to attract children to school.

A survey conducted by the Department of Rural Development and Panchayat Raj (RDPR) showed that 1.59 lakh children in rural Karnataka do not go to school, and many of them include dropouts due to the Covid lockdown. They are also employed as labourers. The government told panchayat members and officials to enrol students in schools and reduce the dropout rate, and also provide facilities to help students return to school.

Principal Secretary (Panchayat Raj) Uma Mahadevan issued a circular, directing panchayats to utilise the 14th and 15th Finance Commission grants and improve the condition of schools. They were told to instal sanitary pad vending machines and incinerators on school premises for girls to use. Apart from this, Wi-Fi facilities are also to be provided.

The circular instructed panchayats to take the help of local skilled workers and labourers to develop, repair or construct government buildings, panchayat office buildings, health centres, government schools and Anganwadi centres.

HC stays probe order against cops

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Thursday stayed the order passed by a magistrate court directing holding an investigation against Bengaluru Police Chief Kamal Pant, DCP MN Anucheth and Cubbon Park Inspector B Maruthi under Section 166A of the IPC for non registration of an FIR. A private complaint was lodged against the officers alleging that they failed to act on a complaint filed by an activist against former minister Ramesh Jarkiholi in a sex CD scandal.

Hearing the petition filed by the three officers, Justice Srinivas Harish Kumar noted that the petitioners sought staying of further proceedings on the order passed by the the 8th Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate on November 23, 2021.

In the impugned order, the magistrate directed the Station House Officer, Cubbon Park Police Station, to investigate them. Further, the court noted that Advocate Prasanna Kumar, representing the petitioners, submitted that the FIR was registered after the victim came forward. An investigation has been held and the final report is ready, but it is not filed because of the order of the division bench. It appears that the complainant is not aware of all the proceedings.

Before this, the counsel of the petitioners argued that complainant Adarsh R Iyer, president, Janadhikara Sangharsha Parishath (JSP), suppressed the facts before the magistrate. The magistrate passed the order for investigation by the Station House Officer, who is also one of the accused according to the petitioner, and a petitioner before this court, he argued.

Heavy rain to lash Chennai till Dec 1

Thoothukudi receives 25 cm of rain in nine hours; train services affected as tracks flooded

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Chennai

THOOTHUKUDI received a whopping 25 cm of rain within a span of just nine hours on Thursday, forcing weather officials to issue a red alert to the district. The incessant rains, felt in other southern Tamil Nadu districts as well, left the district reeling with an average rainfall of 9.1 cm between 6 am to 5 pm. The Thoothukudi airport diverted a flight from Chennai to Tiruchy due to inclement weather while train services were affected as railway tracks were inundated. Even the famous Tiruchendur Temple was not spared from flooding.

The Regional Meteorological Centre said the cyclonic circulation over southwest Bay of Bengal was unlikely to concentrate into a low pressure area, but heavy to very heavy rains would continue to lash TN and Puducherry till November 29. Weather models have predicted massive rains for Chennai during this weekend and up until December 1 with experts urging caution as the extreme rainfall in 2015 was not caused due to any major weather system either. The MET department has withdrawn the orange alert for the city and issued a yellow alert (heavy rainfall) for the next two days.

A railway station in Thoothukudi town flooded after heavy rain on Thursday

According to Thoothukudi airport authorities, the Chennai-Thoothukudi flight, with 51 passengers onboard, was expected to land in the town at 1.50 pm, but was unable to do so due to heavy rains and poor visibility. Tamil Nadu Speaker and Radhapuram MLA M Appavu, who was on the flight, said the plane was redirected to Tiruchy after repeated attempts to land went in vain. "Later, the flight landed at Thoothukudi Airport at 5.05 pm," he added. Similarly, with the Thoothukudi Railway Station inundated, the Southern Railway cancelled the Thoothukudi-Tirunelveli passenger train. Two other services were rescheduled.

Meanwhile, parts of the Tiruchendur Murugan Temple were flooded with the Giri Prakaram and Inner Prakaram seeing knee-deep waters. A portion of a wall on the seaward side of the Giri Prakaram fell.

The intense spell of rain left a small hamlet of nine families in Valasamudram village on the outskirts of Thoothukudi marooned necessitating rescue by Fire and Safety personnel.

Two entire villages -- Pungavarnatham near Kovilpatti and Ayanrasapatti near Ettayapuram -- were completely submerged and a State Disaster Response Force team had been deployed.

MET WARNS OF MORE RAIN IN ANDHRA PRADESH

Vijayawada/Tirupati: Even as the flood-ravaged parts of Rayalaseema and south Coastal Andhra regions are yet to return to normalcy, the Met department had warned of more rains across the State while heavy rainfall warning was issued to various parts of Rayalaseema and south coastal Andhra. Chittoor and Nellore are likely to receive heavy to very heavy rainfall between November 26 to December 2. Tirupati Police sounded an alert and appealed to the people of the temple town to venture out only on urgent work. He also warned them not to reside in old buildings and low-lying areas during these days. Asking people to follow the safety guidelines issued by the authorities, the SP said that NDRF and SDRF teams were kept on standby in the town for rescue operations. The police have also asked people to shift the elderly and children to safer places. ENS

Survey reveals link between schooling, fertility in K'taka

RANJANI MADHAVAN @Bengaluru

HIGHER the schooling rate, lower the rate of marriage and childbearing among younger women in Karnataka. This link between education and fertility was revealed in the National Family Health Survey-5 for the year 2019-2020, released by the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare.

The proportion which started childbearing is high at 18 per cent, among young women who had no schooling, compared to 3 per cent among women with 12 or more years of schooling. At current fertility rates, women with no schooling have an average of 0.4 children more than women with 12 or more years of schooling. This data reflects the situation on the ground in urban and rural areas, observed Dr Carolin Elizabeth George, head of Community Health and Research Division, Bangalore Baptist Hospital.

"We have observed that in low resource settings, for example the slums of DJ Halli, girls who mature by the age of 13 are married and have a child the next year. When not given an opportunity to study, there is no direction, resulting in early marriage. These young women do not have bargaining power when it comes to when they want to have their first child, spacing between multiple children and even use of contraceptives," Dr Carolin said.

The survey found that the percentage of women aged 20-24 married before 18 years of age has reduced marginally in Karnataka -- from 21.4 per cent (NFHS-4) to 21.3 per cent. Women aged 15 to 19 years who were already mothers or pregnant at the time of the survey, reduced from 7.8 per cent to 5.4 per cent. In addition, total fertility rate decreased from 1.8 per cent to 1.7 per cent.

Dr Carolin said that female literacy has increased this decade, compared to the last, although there are pockets where disparities are more. "Education has a bearing on when the girl is married. We also see fewer teen pregnancies. Economic growth and education has resulted in nuclear families with smaller family sizes. This is the trend in developed countries as well," she added.

Religion also has a bearing on fertility, the survey reported. Muslim women have an average of 0.4 children more than Hindu women (total fertility rate of 2.1, compared with 1.6) and 0.6 children more than Christian women (TFR of 1.5). TFR is defined as children per woman.

Disparities in toilet access across K'taka

RANJANI MADHAVAN @Bengaluru

AN analysis of district-wise break-up of access to toilets in National Family Health Survey-5 data reveals regional disparity in Karnataka. The percentage of households having access to toilets is more among 15 districts of South Karnataka and three districts of coastal Karnataka, as opposed to 12 districts of North Karnataka. While a majority of South and all coastal districts have crossed 90 per cent, not a single North Karnataka district has touched 90 per cent.

"Access to toilet facility varies widely across districts, ranging from 46.6 per cent in Yadgir district to all households in Dakshina Kannada district. Households without proper sanitation facilities have a greater risk of diseases like diarrhoea, dysentery and typhoid," the survey read. In Karnataka, 83.1 per cent of households have access to toilet facility, with much higher accessibility in urban areas (93.3%) than in rural areas (75.9%).

"Districts like Bagalkot, Kalaburagi, Bijapur, Raichur, Yadgir etc have very poor access. The reason could be poorer infrastructural investment by the government, lack of water supply and cultural barriers to using toilets. What is important to know is how people defecate in the absence of access to toilets. If it is open defecation, it is much more difficult for women and girls, especially as open fields become less accessible," said Dr Sylvia Karpagam, public health doctor and researcher.

Access to toilets ranges from 76 per cent among Scheduled Castes to 88 per cent among households not belonging to Scheduled Caste, Scheduled Tribe or Other Backward Class, the survey read.

82% MEN SAY WIFE-BEATING IS JUSTIFIED: REPORT

SIX per cent of women aged 18-49 who have ever been pregnant experienced physical violence during one or more of their pregnancies. The most common types of injuries among married women who have experienced physical and sexual violence are cuts, bruises or aches, deep wounds, broken bones, broken teeth or any other serious injury, eye injuries, sprains, dislocations, minor and severe burns, the survey noted.

Shockingly, 82 per cent of men said that wife-beating is justified in some circumstances, especially if she shows disrespect to the in-laws, if she is being unfaithful, or if she neglects the house or children, according to the report.

Singer Harini's dad found dead in B'luru

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru/Hyderabad

THE body of Ayalasomayajula Kaaliprasad Rao alias AK Rao, CEO of MP Sujana Chowdary's Sujana Foundation and father of Tollywood singer Harini Rao, was found dead on the railway tracks in Bengaluru under mysterious circumstances.

While railway police registered a case of suspicious death, his family alleged that Rao was killed and his body could have been dumped on the tracks between Yelahanka and Rajanukunte.

A financial dispute between Rao and another person, to whom Rao had reportedly promised Rs 150 crore loan for a real estate project, could have led to the murder, suspect Railway Police investigating the case.

Rao's family had been living at Srinagar colony under Punjagutta police limits in the city. It was learnt that for more than a week, family members were not at home and the flat was locked. Sources claimed that none of the family members was in contact with anybody, raising suspicions. Preliminary investigations revealed that Rao had come to the Bengaluru.

'Pattern in wildlife cases, but officials ignoring it'

MOREOVER, experts are also finding a marked change in the modus operandi in carrying and transporting animals and their products that are being smuggled in or out. "Though each wildlife case is different, there is a pattern. Around three months ago, over 2,000 tortoises were recovered from Chennai airport. Prior to that, it was at Bengaluru airport and then there was a case at Hyderabad airport. Now, when the cases are being detected at airports, the mode of transporting wildlife items is shifting to roads," said the expert.

"A close analysis shows a set pattern. This is evident to us. But it does not seem to be in the focus of the forest, police or Customs officials. The repeated cases also make it evident that there is lack of coordination, understanding and in-depth assessment among the different agencies," another noted expert said, requesting anonymity. He also stressed that locals are involved in helping poachers and smugglers for their own livelihood. "We know that locals are involved, and information about them has been given to the sleuths. But still, there is no action. All they say is that they are keeping a close watch, but what is the use? The sniffer dogs are resting idle," he said.

Experts have cautioned that only because wildlife smugglers are taking to transporting the animals and products by road, making it easier to pursue and catch them, it should not lead to the agencies to pat themselves on the back. "The seizures of star tortoises in two cases is like the icing on the cake, but many other bags have moved to their destinations undetected. It is an indication that the network of poachers is stronger and bigger than that of the sleuths.," an expert pointed out.

A PARTY AT ODDS WITH PRINCIPLES OF DEMOCRACY

The many instances of leaders and members of the ruling party in Kerala using their clout to suppress rights, deny justice and protect wrongdoers, as in the Thiruvananthapuram adoption row and the recent Aluva domestic violence death, are symptomatic of an ugly political culture. From the very beginning, the Communist governments in the state were accused of promoting 'cell rule', where the party system overshadowed the official state machinery. The party functionaries at different levels were placed on the top and rules of a democratic government were bent to suit their preferences. After the fall of the Soviet Union, fringe Communist groups that revolted against mainstream parties had warned about the danger of party functionaries gaining the upper hand in a democratic set-up. The mismatch between the basic structure of Communist parties and the democratic system has often been pointed out. The structure, envisaged at a time when the parties were operating from underground and existed as a resistance force, is no longer relevant. This structure seldom allows democratic principles to thrive as everything revolves around the party's interests.

The CPM leadership, too, is aware of the reality that unchecked interference of the party in day-to-day functioning of the government would invite a West Bengal-like situation. But all the sincere efforts to curtail the clout of party functionaries have come to naught. Officials who resisted party interference are either intimidated or tortured and democratic institutions are made silent witnesses. Rules are liberally flouted to dole out favours to the kith and kin of leaders. Anything that stands in the way of the party's wish is mercilessly steamrolled. And the partymen believe that the impressive victory in the Assembly polls is a licence to do all this. The party machinery that has become a parallel government will oppose any attempt to disturb the status quo. The party secretaries at different levels are more powerful than the elected representatives or even ministers. But CM Pinarayi Vijayan, who is also a member of the party Politburo, can bring in lasting changes if he wishes. He is the unquestioned leader in the party and the government. He can show the 'party bureaucrats' their place and preserve the democratic spirit in governance. Whether he wants such a change is the million-dollar question.

KCR'S MYSTERIOUS DELHI TRIPS

It is no secret that Telangana Chief Minister K Chandrashekar Rao nurses national ambitions, but it is not clear how he intends to achieve them. After waxing eloquent in Hyderabad that he would lead the farmers' agitation at the national level, implying that he was trying to renew his efforts to craft a political coalition that would emerge as an alternative to the BJP, the Telangana strongman left for Delhi on Sunday and stayed put there for four days. Before leaving and soon after Prime Minister Narendra Modi announced his decision to repeal the contentious farm laws, the CM announced ₹3 lakh ex-gratia to each of the farmers who had died during their 13-month-long agitation. By doing so, he faced flak at home that he did not bother about the plight of the kin of the cultivators who had died by suicide in Telangana but was more concerned about projecting himself as the messiah of farmers at the national level.

Before he left for Delhi, KCR, taking everyone by surprise, sat in a dharna in Hyderabad that was meant to put pressure on the Centre to procure Telangana paddy and slammed the BJP for the agriculture-related ills that plagued the country. He spoke at length about how successive governments had failed to tap the full potential of rivers in providing irrigation facilities to parched lands and vowed to fight the Bill that sought to fix meters to agriculture pumpsets. He had said that he would join hands with farmers in the fight for a legislation that guaranteed minimum support price. After reaching Delhi, he remained indoors. Though West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee was in Delhi, he did not call on her. On Wednesday, he returned to Hyderabad, leaving everyone wondering as to what he had accomplished with his trip. In the present Lok Sabha, the TRS has nine MPs, along with one MIM member who is his ally. Even assuming that he improves his party's tally, it remains to be seen how he could become the fulcrum of an anti-BJP coalition.

Soft power of the cultural kind is for coffee-room discussions. Across the working table, real power along with financial and political support matter more

INDIA'S MAJOR SOFT-POWER TOOL IN FOREIGN POLICY

AMIT BANDRE

N SATHIYA MOORTHY

Distinguished Fellow & Head-Chennai Initiative, Observer Research Foundation

Every time there is a mention of soft-power usage in a foreign policy context, it is invariably restricted to religious, cultural and people-to-people linkages from the past. In the case of India, some foreign policy analysts have concluded that telling the other that they borrowed your religion, culture and/or language from the nation would make them feel happy and proud. This is a flawed approach and has not worked as much as it has been believed to be. The neighbourhood, both near and afar, is a case in point. In religious and cultural linkages, the perceived Indian origin does establish a warmth in some hosts but an equal revulsion/hatred in others, in the same country and community. This is due to differing political and social perceptions. It is contextualised to the experience of individuals and communities that constitute a nation.

In India's case, this is equally so of nations, rather their divided populations, going beyond traditionally adversarial neighbours like Pakistan and China. The list is endless, both in terms of nations and common cultural identities. Between love and hatred for things from the common past with India, one balances out the other in terms of influencing home governments in individual nations in their dealings with India, neighbour or not. And yes, in the modern era, governments decide, and people-centric influence identified with soft-power linkages is minimal though not non-existent.

There are hard choices for governments to make. And they do make them. Soft-power exchanges of the cultural kinds are for coffee-room discussions. Across the working table, real power and consequent external support, financial and/or political, alone matter to the leadership in office.

This does not mean that there is no soft power, or that they do not count with foreign governments, neighbour or not. Definitely, muscle flexing cannot be called soft power. Nor is money power, though both are more influential than soft-power proper, in most cases. But where soft power counts in contemporary contexts, if at all, it owes to the moral stand a nation takes if it is consistent about it. Nothing more, nothing less.

India taking the moral high ground at Independence counted more for our post-freedom foreign policy than the muscle and money power that we did not have at the time—and possibly in comparable terms even at the present with respect to the US and adversarial China. Yet, in contemporary terms, 20th century Indian contributions to the Global South in particular were felt elsewhere too.

It did not stop with how military-minded Western nations came to respect India's successful freedom movement that was based on Gandhiji's ahimsa and satyagraha, after the two bloody World Wars in two decades. Nor did it stop with how Gandhiji's leadership and success inspired other colonised nations in Asia, Arica and Latin America.

The freedom movement gave post-Independence India a moral fibre, the likes of which the world had not seen anywhere else at any time. Though Jawaharlal Nehru did not mention any linkages, within the post-colonial Non-Aligned Movement, the immediate moral past added value to India's presence and participation.

> Where soft power counts in contemporary contexts, if at all, it owes to the moral stand a nation takes as long as it is consistent about it. The freedom movement gave post-Independence India a moral fibre, the likes of which the world had not seen anywhere

It flowed from a right mixture of Mahatma Gandhi's brand of religiosity and humanism—a consequent moralistic political interpretation of 'My Experiments with Truth', for national practitioners first and global audience alongside. It began in the twenties of the previous century, when he had the moral courage to withdraw the Non-Cooperation Movement after the infamous Chauri Chaura violence.

The strength of the moral fibre stood with and by India when Indira Gandhi tested a peaceful nuclear device in 1974 (Pokhran-I), followed by the Vajpayee government's Pokhran-II weapons test in 1998. Even when the West imposed sanctions on the nation, none of them challenged India when it gave a pious undertaking on a 'no-first-use policy'.

They were convinced that New Delhi was not a liar unlike Islamabad, which hid its nuclear ambitions until Pokhran-II forced its hands to undertake the Chagai weapons tests, that too in a fortnight. It's equally so on cross-border terrorism charges against Pakistan, where the US and much of the rest of the West may have taken time to align with the Indian truth.

Today, the Indian moral fibre, the realistic soft-power tool of the nation, lends greater strength to its geostrategic and geoeconomic initiatives, and is its USP over the medium and long terms. India needs to acknowledge that there are other nations that have greater military and economic depth than the nation may be able to achieve anytime soon. But they cannot offset, upset or acquire the soft power that adds value to India's positions and posturing in the regional and international arena.

This is so, unless New Delhi wants to substitute it with adversarial and antagonistic domestic politics, with consequences for the nation's foreign, security and international economic policies. World nations do not want to see a mirror image of themselves in India. They want an India that is itself, with its core values intact, as they have known and learnt to respect.

DIGITISING MENTAL HEALTH: PROMISE OF A NEW NORMAL

DR MAYANK RAI

Psychiatrist, AIIMS Rishikesh

DR DEBANJAN BANERJEE

Consultant geriatric psychiatrist, Kolkata

In 2020, an unprecedented roadblock hit humanity hard, shook its core and disrupted every form of human living. The Covid-19 pandemic has affected all physical forms of communication, brought healthcare down to its knees and left the world economy in an unabated free fall. The outbreak has also cast its dark shadow on the psychological front. Society was in a constant state of panic and fear, not knowing where and when Covid shall strike next. Its reign of terror was more evident in countries like India that struggled to handle the massive workload due to acute shortage of manpower and infrastructure. Our country, already reeling from the inadequate number of mental health professionals for its mammoth population, has received a body blow due to this pandemic. This is where telepsychiatry or e-mental health has a role to play, with its enormous potential and obvious promises.

Like most spheres of human lives, information and communication technology, due to its rapid strides in the last couple of decades, has breached the healthcare system too. The use of internet, TV, social media, etc., has started to play a significant role in day-to-day medicine and surgery in developed nations while telepsychiatry is also taking a front seat on the ride up. In India, though still in a nascent stage, telepsychiatry is the "new normal" and promises to bridge the huge mental health gap. Mental health workers can now seemingly do the impossible and reach faraway corners of the country to spread awareness, treat, and give psychotherapy and advice to whichever population is in dire need of it, which was not possible before. In the times of this pandemic as well as after, it has a definite role to play.

Based on the National Mental Health Survey of India 2015-16, one in six Indians suffer from some sort of mental disorder. The actual number could be still higher. This coupled with an acute shortage of trained professionals paints a poor picture of mental health in the country. It is estimated that only about 29% of mental health needs are met by the available manpower. This number could take a severe downturn, taking into consideration the pandemic and its ensuing aftermath. Also, there is a massive difference between the supply and utilisation of mental health services amongst the rural and urban areas, further compounding the problem. Telepsychiatry could well be the much-needed shot in the arm of the lumbering mental health services.

There are various methods of providing telepsychiatry to the masses. The most used have been consultation over telephone calls, emails, text messages, social media forums like special chat groups, websites, blogs, vlogs and via video conferencing. Out of these, video conferencing comes the closest to a real doctor-patient interaction due to its live, two- way and audio-visual interaction. It can almost obviate the need for a mental health expert in the vicinity. Overall, there are two main types of e-mental health technology—synchronous or interactive, and asynchronous or store-and-forward. Synchronous technologies provide real-time interaction, whether audio or visual, and have the advantage of immediate response. The quality, though, is limited by the nature of the technology provided. The asynchronous or store-and-forward technique involves non-real-time data transfer and interaction, mainly via e-mails and web applications for later perusal by the expert and does not require both parties to be present at the same time. But its major strength is also its chief drawback as real-time urgent resolutions are not possible.

> In India, though still in a nascent stage, telepsychiatry is the new normal and promises to bridge the huge gap. Mental health workers can now reach faraway corners of the country to spread awareness and treat whichever population is in dire need of it

Telepsychiatry can be utilised for conducting various kinds of real-time case managements and emergency as well as planned consultations for education, raising awareness, training and teaching and consultation liaison services. Various internet-based psychotherapies and neuropsychological assessments that would otherwise suffer from the lack of adequate manpower and infrastructure can also be provided.

The biggest challenges to this proposed mental health reform come in the form of lack of proper logistics and technology, delivery methods, cost effectiveness and trained staff. Although such e-mental health services would reduce the expenses incurred on things like travel, the cost of the best available technology and trained staff would levy a heavy toll, putting its promise of being cost effective under question.

Apart from the functional challenges above, various ethical and legal questions remain unanswered. The role and responsibility of a telepsychiatrist in an emergency condition like a suicidal or severely agitated patient can be called to question, but it can be mitigated to some extent in the presence of the primary care physician or other mental health professional. Another legal challenge is the privacy and confidentiality of the patient's data and unwanted disclosure of clinical notes or mental health status to a foreign source. This can be overcome by the promise of encrypted software that doesn't allow sharing of any data with third parties. But still, these threats cannot be taken lightly and cybersecurity needs to be ramped up.

In a landmark move, the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare, Government of India, released telepsychiatry guidelines last year in association with the Indian Psychiatric Society (IPS) and NIMHANS, Bengaluru. Also, very recently, the IPS started its first-ever suicide prevention helpline (1800-532-0807) for the public. These are welcome steps to digitise mental health for service delivery and training in our country. Even with its challenges, the transition of psychological health to a virtual platform has received a positive impetus during Covid. How it will stand the test of time remains to be seen.

Demoralising tale

This is with reference to Tortured by party, denied pension, ex-IPS officer works as security man (Nov 25). It was disheartening and demoralising to read it. An officer with an impeccable record during his service, he was attacked and denied retirement benefits only because he did not bow before political leaders. His current job profile as a security man in a private company itself is testimony to his integrity during service.

Gireeshan P, Vatakara

Police as a party tool

The report about ex-IPS officer K Radhakrishnan's present status is shocking. The former Women's Commission chairperson blurting out that her party was the court and police station is in fact true and can be extended in some cases to 'judge, jury and executioner' (In its run to save special ones, CPM crushes lesser mortals under feet, Nov 25). One can't blame the people if they wonder whether the extension of the tenure of the current state police chief has anything to do with subservience to the party, as those waiting in line such as DGP B Sandhya, who will now never lead the force, have impeccable working records and are unlikely to fall in line.

Elizabeth Koshy, Pathanamthitta

TMC & Cong-mukt Bharat

The Trinamool seems to be a party on a mission. It has actively started admitting leaders, particularly from the Congress, into its fold across India. It is obvious that the TMC wants to position itself as a national party and an opposite pole to the BJP in the upcoming 2024 general elections. It is clear that the GOP may soon be swallowed by other ambitious parties. It is time the Congress leadership got its act together and kept its flock before it is too late to even be called the principal opposition party in India.

K Ramachandran, Chennai

From 0 seats to main oppn

It appears that all is not well with the Congress in Meghalaya after 12 MLAs, including former CM Mukul Sangma, jumped ship and joined the Trinamool. The TMC will now be the principal opposition party in the Meghalaya Assembly, even though it won no seat in the 2018 Assembly polls. The Congress has only itself to blame.

N J Ravi Chander, Bengaluru

Good news for poor

The Centre's decision to continue the PM Garib Kalyan Anna Yojana upto March 2022 is good news (Nov 25). It is not only a poll season booster, it will also help poor people who are yet to recover from Covid's impact.

K Chandrasekaran, Chennai

Act of betrayal

Punjab Congress Chief Navjot Singh Sidhu is once again in the news for the wrong reasons (Nov 21). One is baffled how the former cricketer, whenever he is on Pakistani soil, heaps praise on its leaders. This is an act of betrayal as Pakistani leaders continue to sponsor terror. Has the Congress leader forgotten that Imran Khan spares no opportunity or forum to blame and ridicule India for everything that happens under the sun?

Meeting at Sonia's residence decides to reach out to Opposition outfits on issues like MSP guarantee, price rise before Parliament session

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Congress will reach out to other Opposition parties to raise issues related to inflation, farmers' demand of MSP guarantee, the Lakhimpur Kheri incident and demand for compensation for Covid-19 victims during the winter session of Parliament which is scheduled to start on November 29.

At a meeting of the Parliament Strategy Group chaired by Congress chief Sonia Gandhi at her residence on Thursday, it was agreed that the Opposition should corner the Centre together on these issues and the party will reach out to the floor leaders of the Opposition in both houses of Parliament. It will be interesting to see the Congress reach out to the Opposition, notably TMC, when the grand old party has accused the Bengal-based outfit of poaching its leaders.

The meeting was attended senior Congress leaders AK Antony, Mallikarjun Kharge, Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury, KC Venugopal, Anand Sharma, K Suresh, Ravneet Bittu and Jairam Ramesh among others.

After the meeting, Kharge, who is also the Leader of Opposition in the Rajya Sabha, said the Congress will raise inflation, farmers' issues, and resignation of Union Minister of State for Home Ajay Kumar Mishra because his son is the prime accused in the Lakhimpur Kheri violence incident.

"We will call up leaders of various parties as part of our efforts to bring the Opposition parties together on these issues in the Parliament," he said.

Sharma said as a principal Opposition party, efforts will be made by Congress to ensure that Opposition parties speak together on these matters.

"There are important issues, including the farmers' demands, the MSP, resignation of the minister whose son was involved in the killing of four farmers in Lakhimpur Kheri, and price rise. All these issues will be raised," he said.

It has been learnt that Congress will press for a demand of ₹4 lakh in compensation for the family of each Covid-19 victim. Rising price of fuel and other items will also be highlighted.

BJP whip for Rajya Sabha MPs on crucial 'business'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

THE BJP parliamentary party has issued a whip to its Rajya Sabha MPs to remain present for 'important business'. The government is likely to first move the farm laws repeal bill in Rajya Sabha, which has received Cabinet nod.

The Centre is seemingly pressing ahead with urgency to repeal the farm laws. The bill is likely to get Parliament's nod in the first few working days of the winter session. The BJP parliamentary party hasn't yet issued a whip for its Lok Sabha MPs .

With the Cabinet having approved the legislative proposal to repeal the three contentious laws, which set off protests by farmer unions for over a year, the BJP floor leaders in both houses are strategising to ensure smooth passage of the bill, with the Opposition likely to further pressurise the government on the manner the agitation has been handled, besides raising other issues, including agrarian distress and commitment from the Centre on minimum support price.

While the BJP-led NDA enjoys numerical comfort in Lok Sabha, it may have to face the heat in the Upper House amid rival parties closing flanks for closer cooperation. The winter session is commencing from November 29 with Covid-19 protocols still in force.

MPs in Lok Sabha will continue to sit in the chamber as well as galleries except that of the press where only a select few will get daily passes. The Lok Sabha secretariat has done away with Covid tests for those who have got two doses.

Failure to curb infighting leads to setbacks for grand old party

RICHA SHARMA @ New Delhi

FAILING to address infighting and weak links in state units, with Trinamool Congress going all out to 'capture' disgruntled party leaders, caused setbacks to Congress in Meghalaya, where it had emerged the single largest party in the 2018 Assembly elections.

Leaders expressed concern that the party is failing to address concerns of state leaders and trouble is brewing in almost all state units, which is further hurting party's revival plans.

Former Meghalaya Chief Minister Mukul Sangma and 11 MLAs merging with TMC comes six weeks after he met Congress chief Sonia Gandhi and Rahul Gandhi, expressing unhappiness over the appointment of MP Vincent H Pala as Meghalaya Congress chief in September this year.

Sources said the high command failed to address concerns raised by Sangama, who was upset over not being consulted before Pala's appointment. Pala is an MP from Shillong. The party has seen conflicts and infighting in several state units like Punjab, Rajasthan, Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, J&K, Assam, West Bengal, Kerala and others.

"There is a long list of trouble brewing in state units which could not be addressed timely. In Punjab, we created a situation where state unit chief continues to defy the high command's directives and attack his own government. Things are not settled in Rajasthan. Leaders have quit in J&K and now Meghalaya. This needs to be addressed if we want to challenge the Modi government in 2024," said a senior leader.

Another leader pointed out that political strategist Prashant Kishor is in touch with disgruntled leaders and getting them to join TMC as that party looks to expand its national footprint. "Attacking people who are switching to other parties will not work. The leadership should seriously ponder because some young and promising leaders have also left," said a former MP.

TMC's EXPANSION DRIVE AIMED AT PAN-INDIA PRESENCE

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR
@ New Delhi

TRINAMOOL Congress is working on a planned expansion drive with an aim to emerge as a more vibrant, acceptable and effective secular opposition than Congress with a pan-India presence. This was what a senior leader of the party said.

A recent statement of TMC's national general secretary and MP Abhishek Banerjee that the party will beat BJP in 2024 explains its mission expansion. TMC MP Dr Santanu Sen said recently people have realised that Mamata Banerjee should be the face of the 2024 elections. Cricketer-turned politician and new TMC inductee Kirti Azad and diplomat-turned-politician Pavan K Varma have also said the nation needs a leader like Mamata, who fights for people and takes to the streets against injustice.

A reliable TMC source said TMC does not want Congress at the centrestage and to counter BJP and Congress, Mamata's party is inducting disgruntled leaders from other parties, including Congress. "The political talent hunt of TMC will continue," said the source.

Sources also said many other leaders from BJP and Congress are willing to join TMC. "Let's see what happens next," said the source, adding that Mamata is channelising her energy towards bringing opposition parties on one platform ahead of the 2024 polls.

Mamata is also scheduled to meet Sharad Pawar, Uddhav Thackeray, Lalu Prasad Yadav and others from north and south India to create a vibrant opposition.

By making political entry in states like Uttar Pradesh, Punjab, Haryana, Bihar and other states, TMC seems to working on a plan.

Varma recently said TMC has the potential to become the principal challenge to BJP with a national ambition to form an organised and pan-India opposition. Sources also said some other leaders disgruntled with the Gandhi siblings are willing to join TMC. "Many from BJP are also in line to join TMC. Those who are feeling alienated in the party." Sources feel TMC is considering announcing support for AAP in Punjab and Samajwadi Party in Uttar Pradesh, without fielding own candidates.

Railway sets 'net zero' emission goal for 2030

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

INDIAN Railways has set a target of becoming a 'net-zero' emitter by 2030 by completing electrification of all railway tracks.

Sharing this with the media, railway minister Ashwini Vaishnaw recently said that all efforts are being taken by Indian Railways to achieve the target by exploring more and more usage-renewal energy and completing electrification work on a fast pace. "By undertaking a big exercise like this, we are moving towards net-zero for the railways by 2030 and hope to achieve it," he said.

Sources said that as on April 2021, nearly 48,881 km of tracks had been electrified and solar panels on the roofs of more than a thousand railway stations have been installed for renewable energy reducing carbon emission. In the freight segment, railways runs nearly 8,479 trains daily. Around 2,93,077 freight wagons are used in transporting goods by the railways.

"If electrification of all routes is completed by 2023-24, the railways will not only reduce carbon emission, but also save revenue running in thousands of cores which is spent for purchasing high speed diesel," a source said, adding that 76,608 passengers coaches are used by the railways on electrified and non-electrified routes combined.

Sources said that the railway has adopted a multi-pronged approach to go green in its entire services, right from replacing conventional lights to LED and installing solar energy panels to meet the energy requirement for non-track works also.

"If the railways achieves its target of electrifying its entire routes by 2024, then it would become the world's largest rail network with 100% electrification. A plan has also been made to install 20 giga watt of solar energy for all purposes of the railways," source said. A plant with a capacity to generate around 1.7 MW solar energy has been set up in Madhya Pradesh as the first solar energy plant directly supplying power to the overhead lines.

Cashing in on Cong loss, NPP looks to emerge as BJP's alternative in Manipur

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

THE National People's Party (NPP) is trying to emerge as an alternative to BJP in poll-bound Manipur by cashing in on Congress's depleting popularity.

Even as Congress tries to recover from recent setbacks following the defection of MLAs, the NPP has started ground work with eyes on Assembly elections due in February.

NPP heads the coalition government in Meghalaya and is a constituent of Manipur's BJP-led ruling alliance. The party's national president and Meghalaya Chief Minister Conrad K Sangma launched the poll campaign by addressing rallies in Imphal valley earlier this week. NPP had contested nine seats in 2017 but is likely to field candidates in around 40 seats this time. This indicates how optimistic the party is about Manipur. All its four wining candidates in last elections were inducted into the ministry.

Sheikh Noorul Hassan, NPP's Manipur unit general secretary (organisation), said the party was not organised before 2017 elections. The decision to contest polls that year was sudden. "This time, we are fighting the polls seriously. Manipur does not have a sustainable economic policy. If NPP comes to power, the state will have an economic policy and it will be implemented effectively," Hassan told this newspaper.

He said the NPP would fight on people's issues. Stating that they would grant ST status to indigenous Meitei and Meitei Pangal communities, if voted to power, he said this would bring over 30 ethnic communities together, resulting in growth and development in all 60 constituencies. "Candidates we are going to field are widely-known in their constituencies as they have been well-connected with people through social services. Some of them are highly educated," Hassan said.

Personality matters a lot in the elections in the Northeast states. In the 2012 Manipur elections, Trinamool Congress virtually had no base in the state but eventually managed to win seven seats after fielding some good candidates.

The NPP promised to bring in a policy for the protection of cultural and linguistic identity of all indigenous communities and their rights. "We raised many issues, but our voices were never heard," Hassan said, indicating the BJP, by virtue of being the single largest party in the state, calls the shots in the ruling coalition.

Shah appeals to industries for investment in Northeast

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

ALL capitals of Northeast states will be connected with airports before 2024, Union home minister Amit Shah said on Thursday. He called upon industries to invest in the region and boost development. He said the region is witnessing peace and political stability for the first time under the Narendra Modi government.

There has been a paradigm shift in enhancing the infrastructure in the Northeast and before 2024, Shah said, adding that with airports, seven of the eight Northeast states will be connected by rail. Work has begun to build many national highways, the minister said.

Shah was addressing a session "Bharat at 75: Empowering Northeast India" at the annual general meeting of the Indian Chamber of Commerce (ICC). Urging the ICC to look at the positive changes in the region and set up a chapter there, the minister said, "I would like to tell ICC that everything required for investments is there in the Northeast."

The minister said PM Modi's target of turning India into a $5 trillion economy in the coming years will not be possible if the Northeast region isn't developed properly. "The Northeast is very important for us and we have to connect it with the rest of the country in all sense," said the home minister.

The submission came on plea by NEET candidates challenging the discrepancy and patent error in Question 2 of Section A (physics) wherein while translating from English to Hindi, the word 'amplitude of current' was omitted. Tighter screening of flyers from 3 nations

NEW DELHI: The Centre on Thursday asked all states and union territories to conduct rigorous screening and testing of all international travellers coming from or transiting through South Africa, Hong Kong and Botswana, where a new Covid variant of serious public health implications has been reported.

In a letter to the states and union territories, Union Health Secretary Rajesh Bhushan asked them to ensure that samples of travellers turning positive are sent to the designated IGSLS or genome sequencing laboratories promptly.

It has now been reported by the National Centre for Disease Control (NCDC) that multiple cases of a COVID-19 variant B.1.1529 have been reported in Botswana (3 cases), South Africa (6) and Honk Kong (1 case), Bhushan said in the letter. "This variant is reported to have a significantly high number of mutations, and thus, has serious public health implications for the country, in view of recently relaxed visa restrictions and opening up of international travel.

"It is therefore imperative that all international travellers travelling from and transiting through these countries, (they are part of the 'at risk' country category of international travellers coming to India) and also including all other 'at risk' countries indicated in the revised Guidelines for International Arrivals.@

The contacts of these international travellers must also be closely tracked and tested as per MoHFW guidelines. PTI

UP getting its due after 70 yrs of freedom: Modi

Credits the feat to the BJP's double engine govt at Centre and state

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

UTTAR Pradesh is finally getting what it always deserved courtesy the double engine governments at the state and the Centre, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said on Thursday.

Laying the foundation of Noida International Airport project at Jewar, Modi said Uttar UP which faced taunts and criticism over issues like scams, poor infrastructure, non-implementation of policies, schemes, crime, and caste-based politics, was now leading the country in infrastructure development and leaving its mark at the international level.

> In Uttar Pradesh, where previous govts maintained in deprivation and darkness, where they always showed false dreams; the same state is leaving its mark not only nationally but also internationally
>
> Narendra Modi, PM

"The previous government deprived Uttar Pradesh of development. After seven decades of independence, UP is getting what it always deserved. With the efforts of a double-engineered government, UP is now turning into the country's most connected region."

Taking potshots at the previous dispensations, the PM claimed that the ground-breaking ceremony could have taken place immediately after the BJP government took over the reins of power in 2017 but it did not do so as infrastructure development was a matter of national policy for the BJP government and not politics. "Even publicity after the announcement could have also been taken through the media. ... But for us, infrastructure development is not politics but a matter of national policy."

Modi trained guns at the previous governments saying that as the Jewar project was conceptualised by the previous BJP government two decades ago but it had been in limbo because of the tussle of central and state governments. He claimed that the parties used to announce projects without estimating the expenses without acquiring land.

"Now, Uttar Pradesh has become synonymous to Uttam Suvida (best facilities), Nirantar Nivesh (endless investment)," the PM said, adding that his government's policy was to make sure that the projects did not hit any roadblocks midway. "If there is a delay, there is a provision of penalty as well."

Eyes on poll, Yogi again raises Jinnah diatribe

LUCKNOW: Uttar Pradesh chief minister Yogi Adityanath on Thursday brought the reference of Jinnah yet again while raking his 'Ganna versus Jinnah' plank as he addressed the people at Jewar. "While the farmers of Jewar worked to increase the sweetness of sugarcane, some replaced the sweetness with bitterness with a series of riots. Today, there are two options in front of the country — whether it wants to spread the sweetness of Ganna or let the followers of Jinnah run riot," the chief minister said. Yogi Adityanath's 'Ganna versus Jinnah' narrative dates back to 2018 when he coined the phrase at the time of bypoll to Kairana Lok Sabha constituency. The more recent reference of discourse over Jinnah came up when Samajwadi Party chief Akhilesh Yadav drew a parallel regarding the efforts of Jinnah in freedom struggle with that of Nehru, Mahatma Gandhi and Sardar Patel at a public rally. ENS

'Rapists need to repent every day, night'

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

THE Bombay High Court on Thursday commuted the death sentence awarded to three convicts in the Shakti Mills gang rape case to rigorous life imprisonment without parole and furlough.

The convicts deserved imprisonment for the reminder of their life "to repent the offence committed by them as death puts an end to the concept of repentance, suffering and mental agony", the court said.

Setting aside the trial court order, the HC bench of Justices Prithviraj Chavan and Sadhana Jadhav, in its 106-page benchmark judgment, said the convicts — Vijay Jadhav, Mohd Qasim Sheikh Bengali and Mohd Salim Ansari — did not "deserve to assimilate with the society as it would be difficult to survive in a society of such men who look upon women with derision, depravity, contempt and objects of desire".

The fourth convict had already been handed life sentence by trial court, which was upheld by the high court.

The high court said the accused did not deserve any leniency, empathy or sympathy; they deserved imprisonment for life remainder for their natural life.

"Every day the rising sun would remind them of the barbaric acts committed by them and night lay them with a heavy heart filled with guilt and remorse. The death penalty does not serve the penological goal of deterrence any more than life imprisonment. Therefore, the rigorous sentence for a remainder of their natural life without any remission, parole or furlough would meet the end of justice," read the order.

> Death penalty does not serve the penological goal of deterrence any more than life imprisonment. Therefore, the rigorous sentence for a remainder of their natural life without any remission, parole... — HC

The ghastly gang rape of a 22-year-old photojournalist at the abandoned Shakti Mills complex in Mumbai in August 2013 had shaken society and led to a huge outcry.

The high court said although the offence was barbaric and heinous, "the constitutional court cannot award the punishment by taking into consideration only the public outcry... A sentence of death is irrevocable and therefore, a basic principle of sentencing policy would be 'life imprisonment is the rule and death is the exception'."

"We cannot be oblivious of the procedure established by law...Such incidents shock the consciousness of society at large. But that by itself does not entitle us to ignore the procedure established by law," the bench stated.

Every case of rape is a heinous offence, the court observed. "The damage to the victim for outweighs the public conscience. A rape victim does not suffer just physical injury but what is affected is her mental health and stability of life. Rape is tantamount to a serious blow to the supreme honour and dignity of the woman," the order stated.

The bench noted that while dealing with confirmation of death penalties, it has to remind itself of the cardinal principle: that the courts have to be aware that the harsher the punishment, the higher should be the standards.

Tripura polls peaceful, 80% voting

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

OVER 80 per cent voting was reported in the Tripura civic polls on Thursday amid accusations of political violence.

The results of Agartala Municipal Corporation and 19 other Urban Local Bodies will be declared on November 28.

While there were no reports of any major violence, the state election commission said it received complaints from some political parties and candidates which they were being looked into. Earlier in the day, the Supreme Court had issued directions to the Centre to provide two additional companies of central armed police forces for securing every polling booth.

The polls were an acid test for the Trinamool Congress as well as the Left parties, particularly CPI-M. Buoyed by its success in the West Bengal polls, the TMC has set its sights on Tripura, a Bengali-majority state where Assembly elections will be held in early 2023. For the Left, which ruled the state for 25 years until being unseated by the BJP in 2018, the civic elections were a challenge to regain the lost ground.

In the run up to the polls, the opposition parties had accused the BJP of attacking and intimidating their workers and supporters and organised protest demonstrations.

Kolkata poll on Dec 19

In neighbouring West Bengal, the state election commission issued the notification for the December 19 Kolkata Municipal Corporation poll. While the BJP is desperate to retain 15 wards out of 144 of the civic body which it bagged in 2015, the ruling TMC is eyeing to wipe out its rival from the grassroots of the state capital.

After absconding, Mumbai's ex-top cop surfaces

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

MUMBAI'S former police chief Param Bir Singh, who faces at least five charges of extortion and corruption in Maharashtra and had been missing for months, appeared at the city police's Crime Branch Unit 11 office on Thursday morning.

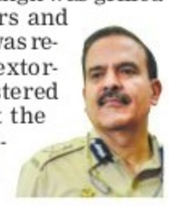
Meanwhile, Maharashtra DGP Sanjay Pandey has moved a report on suspending Singh, who holds the DG, Home Guard post. The report has been submitted to Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray, who is said to be discussing the issue with alliance partner NCP.

A highly placed source in the government said, "Singh is in Mumbai therefore things may move fast. The government is discussing if Singh should be arrested first and then suspended, or vice versa."

The source said NCP chief Sharad Pawar is furious over the arrest of former Maharashtra home minister Anil Deshmukh, against whom Singh leveled allegations of corruption. Pawar is determined to teach Singh as well as the Centre a lesson, the source added.

"Singh was used to level charges and now he is backtracking, terming the charges hearsay," the source said, referring to a recent claim by Singh's lawyer that the former police commissioner's allegations against Deshmukh were "hearsay" and based on information provided by other officers.

At the Crime Branch office on Thursday, Singh was grilled for seven hours and his statement was recorded in an extortion case registered against him at the Goregaon police station in Mumbai.



Sidhu threatens hunger strike against own govt

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

PUNJAB Congress president Navjot Singh Sidhu has taken on his own government again, threatening to go on a hunger strike if the reports on the drugs menace and the 2015 sacrilege of Guru Granth Sahib were not made public.

At a gathering at Baghapurana in Moga, Sidhu said, "The party came to power promising eradication of drugs. But if the government does not open the drug report, I will go on hunger strike. We need to show why previous Chief Minister Amarinder Singh sat on these reports. The court has not barred the state government from opening the reports."

On the other hand, Punjab CM Charanjit Singh Channi said the Badals will have to pay for their sins against the state and its people. Channi said the Badals had a hand in every misdeed. He also said that the cable mafia, drug mafia, sand mafia, transport mafia all thrived under the Badals.

Channi said now that the state government has launched a crackdown on the mafia, the Badals are running pillar to post to save them. He added that the sins of the Badals are unpardonable and they will be made accountable for their acts of omission and commission.

Attacking AAP chief Arvind Kejriwal, Channi said the "rumour monger" politician has a desire to rule Punjab due to which he is trying to mislead Punjabis. He reminded Kejriwal that history shows Punjabis love their land.

Family appeals for return of body, probe in Hyderpora killings

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

TEN days after the Hyderpora encounter, the family of one of the four slain men has demanded a judicial probe to verify the police claim that their son was a militant and sought a meeting with Lt Governor Manoj Sinha to demand justice.

Abdul Lateef Magray, the father of Amir Magray, told this newspaper that the family wanted a judicial probe into the encounter. "My son was not a militant. He was innocent and working as an office boy in the office of Dr Mudasir. Plice are wrongly claiming he was a militant. All the three killed in the encounter were not militants. They were civilians and have been murdered."

Police had said Pakistani militant Haider Bhai, his associate Amir Magray, OGW Mudasir Gul and businessman Altaf Bhat were killed in the Hyderpora encounter. But, the families of Amir, Mudasir and Altaf allege that the trio was killed in a staged encounter.

Lateef, who has once killed a militant, said the Ramban Deputy Commissioner told him that the body of his son cannot be handed as the Kashmir IG has been saying that he was militant. "My son was not a militant. How can the son of a person, who has fought against militants and taken bullets, be a militant? We want judicial inquiry to ascertain the facts."

"We have submitted an application in the DC's office and officials have assured us that they will fix our meeting with L-G. We will seek justice from L-G and also request him to hand over the body of our son for proper burial," he said.

HC seeks govt, NTCA reply on 36 tiger deaths

The Madhya Pradesh High Court has issued notices to the state and central governments and the National Tiger Conservation Authority (NTCA) seeking explanation about the death of 36 tigers in the state in less than 11 months this year. The notices were issued by the HC bench headed by Chief Justice Ravi Malimath on a Public Interest Litigation (PIL) filed by wildlife and RTI activist Ajay Dubey. The petitioner alleged poaching/death of even radio-collared big cats outside protected areas, allegedly due to negligence of the state forest department. The high court has asked the respondents to file replies within four weeks. In August 2019, the state had become India's 'tiger state' with 526 tigers counted in 2018 compared to 308 in 2014.

Importantly, Mandsaur district is the home district of state's excise minister Jagdish Dewra. Recently, the administration of Khandwa district decided liquor shops shall serve only those who are doubly vaccinated.

CHINA ASKS US TO END OPS IN DISPUTED SEA

Beijing: The Chinese military asked the US to stop "close-in reconnaissance, interference, provocation" in the disputed South China Sea after the accident involving an American nuclear-powered submarine in the region. The USS Connecticut struck an object underwater in the South China Sea last month. Eleven sailors on board the submarine were injured. Commenting on the US Navy dismissing two senior officers of the nuclear-powered attack submarine, Chinese Defence Ministry Spokesman Sr Col Wu Qian told media here that since the collision occurred, the US side's awkward and secretive attitude has inevitably raised doubts. UK blames France after Channel tragedy

Britain calls on French authorities to improve policing of their shoreline

LONDON/PARIS

THE deaths of at least 27 people in the English Channel is fueling tensions between the UK and France over how to stop migrants from crossing the world's busiest waterway in small boats.

Despite a pledge from British Prime Minister Boris Johnson and French President Emmanuel Macron that they would "do everything possible" to stop people smugglers from endangering lives, politicians on both sides of the channel are already sniping at their counterparts for failing to prevent Wednesday's tragedy.

UK officials criticise France for rejecting their offer of British police and border officers to conduct joint patrols along the channel coast with French police. French authorities say Britain is stoking the crisis because it is too easy for migrants to remain in the country and work if they manage to cross the channel.

Amid the finger pointing, British lawmakers on Thursday will debate the soaring number of migrants who are crossing the channel in small boats. Macron is scheduled to discuss the issue with European Union officials.

Meanwhile, migrants are continuing to brave frigid weather in small boats and unseaworthy dinghies in hopes of getting to British shores to seek asylum or better opportunities. More than 25,000 people have made the dangerous Channel crossing so far this year, about triple the total for the whole of 2020.

"This tragedy was completely predictable, indeed it was predicted and it was completely preventable," Zoe Gardner, of the Joint Council of Welfare for Immigrants, told the BBC. "This has to be a time for our government to mark a turning point." "We need to offer people alternatives to the smuggling boats." Johnson said on Wednesday it was clear that French operations to stop migrant boats from leaving French shores "haven't been enough," despite millions of pounds of support promised by the British government this summer meant to fund more police patrols on French beaches.

But Calais lawmaker Pierre-Henri Dumont told the BBC that more patrols "will not change anything because we have 200 to 300 kilometers of shore to monitor 24/7."

"I think it's time for both our governments to stop blaming each other and to try and talk to each other and find real solutions, not a crazy solution such as having more and more people patrolling, sending the British Army to the French shore," Dumont said. AP

France makes 5th arrest

The minister told the RTL broadcaster that the fifth suspect's car was registered in Germany and that he had bought inflatable Zodiac boats in Germany

Contentious UAE official elected head of Interpol

ISTANBUL

INTERPOL on Thursday elected a contentious official from the UAE as its new president during the international law enforcement body's annual General Assembly held in Istanbul. Major General Ahmed Naser al-Raisi, inspector general at the UAE's interior ministry, was elected for one four-year term. He has been accused by human rights groups of involvement in torture and arbitrary detentions in UAE.

The vote for president was being closely watched since the first-ever Chinese president of the body, Meng Hongwei, vanished midway through his four-year term on a return trip to China in 2018. It subsequently emerged that he had been detained, accused of bribery and other alleged crimes. Interpol said Valdecy Urquiza of Brazil was elected to the post of vice president for the Americas, while Garba Baba Umar of Nigeria was elected vice president for Africa. AP

BMW to launch three new EVs over next 6 months

PAVAN LALL

BMW will be launching three new electric models over the next six months, beginning with the launch of iX next month.

Vikram Pawah (In Picture), President, BMW Group India, in an exclusive interview to TNIE, said that the company is on track to launch three fully new electric cars in the next six months taking their product offensive on new models to the next level.

Laying down the launch roadmap, Pawah said the company will be launching iX in the next 30 days, MINI Electric in the next 90 days and BMW i4, which is the Sedan, in 180 days. He says BMW was the first one to launch electric cars in India in 2015 with i8, and they are the first ones to give this wide choice in such a short span as well. iX will be the company's first product which doesn't have a numeral in it.

"The iX signifies that it is the first BMW which is all electric, all-wheel drive and it is a Sports Activity Vehicle, and is the flagship of our new technology as well, which is driving pleasure which will be retained with electric as well," says Pawah.

The German-based luxury car maker has set a target that electric vehicles would make 50% of its global sales by 2030. However, he said, it is difficult to put a number in case of India as they don't have the visibility of how the charging infrastructure will be in India by 2030.

"For India in the short term, electric will still be a niche segment because infrastructure is not fully available in every city. We haven't seen many charging networks available as of now and until we see a clear path of how many charging stations will be there across the country, we cannot say anything. If you tell me that there will be 1 million or 50,000 charging stations by 2022 then maybe I can estimate the volume, depending on the city," he explains.

Stock surge gives Ambani edge in wealth race

Caught in a battle of billionaires, personal fortune of Gautam Adani and Mukesh Ambani stands almost at par

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

SHARES of Reliance Industries (RIL) jumped over 6% on Thursday, a day after the conglomerate announced that its board has decided to implement 'a scheme of arrangement' to transfer gasification undertaking into a wholly-owned subsidiary.

This surge comes at a time when personal fortune of Gautam Adani, Chairman of Adani Group, and RIL boss Mukesh Ambani (In picture) is almost at par and there is a possibility that the former may topple the latter to become Asia's and India's richest billionaire in the very near future.

According to Bloomberg Billionaires Index, Adani's fortune stood at $89.1 billion on Thursday, just $0.6 billion shy of Ambani's $89.7 billion. Their wealth fluctuates often based on their companies' share prices/market caps and in the past few sessions, baring Thursday, RIL's share price/m-cap has seen a plunge while m-cap of Adani Group companies has seen a strong rise as most Adani shares are now trading at an all-time-peak.

Ambani has been holding the title of India's richest business tycoon for the past many years and in April dethroned Alibaba's Jack Ma to become Asia's richest. Adani, on the other hand, has added more billions to his fortune than anyone else this year. In 2021, Adani has added $55.3 billion to his fortune compared to Ambani's $13 billion.

It would be now intresting to see if Ambani is able to maintain his lead as the two most powerful faces of India Inc. are gearing up to make it big in the renewable energy space. The two Groups have committed to invest billions of dollars in solar energy and expect this segment to contribute to a significant portion of their revenue from next decade.

RIL stock closed Thursday's trade quoting at ₹2,494 apiece, up 6.10%, on the BSE. It also pushed benchmark indexes to end with significant gain with BSE Sensex adding 454 points and NSE Nifty adding 121 points on Thursday.

RIL to transfer gasification assets to company subsidiary

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Board of Reliance Industries Limited on Wednesday decided to transfer its gasification assets to its wholly-owned subsidiary -- Reliance Syngas Limited (RSL).

The company said repurposing the gasification assets will help use syngas as a reliable source of feedstock to produce these chemicals and cater to growing domestic demand, resulting in an attractive business opportunity.

"The gasification project at Jamnagar was set up with the objective to produce syngas to meet the energy requirements as refinery off-gases, which earlier served as fuel, were repurposed into feedstock for the refinery off gas cracker. This enables the production of olefins at competitive capital and operating costs," informed RIL in a statement.

RSL is a company incorporated under the Companies Act, 2013 on November 1. It is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Reliance. Syngas as a fuel ensures reliability of supply and helps reduce volatility in energy costs. It is also used to produce hydrogen for consumption in the Jamnagar refinery.

Treat insurance policies as capital assets: ICAI

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

The Institute of Chartered Accountants of India (ICAI) has suggested that Life Insurance Policies be treated as a capital asset.

"It is suggested that Life insurance Policies be treated as a capital asset falling within the definition of "property" under section 2(14) of the (income Tax) Act. Indexation benefit (for premiums paid) will take care of inflationary impact - resulting in parity with other capital assets," ICAI said in its Pre-Budget Memorandum, 2022.

Usually, maturity proceeds under life insurance policy are tax-free under Section 10(10D) of the Income Tax Act. However, there are certain situations where this exemption is not available. For example, this exemption is not available on maturity proceeds of unit-linked insurance policies (Ulips) with an annual premium above ₹2.5 lakh.

ICAI argues that deduction of only premium while computing the net income or loss after surrender or withdrawal of policy doesn't take care of inflation resulting in higher taxability.

"A tax consolidation scheme may also be adopted in India. This would create a positive impact on business with significant reduction of compliance and litigation cost," ICAI added.

It also added that exemption should not be linked based on premium to sum assured ratio. "Currently exemption under section 10(10D) is based on premium to actual capital sum assured ratio. This results in life insurance with higher premiums due to age factor, occupational / lifestyle diseases (blood pressure, diabetes, etc.), being treated as taxable. Policyholders in absolute need of insurance cover are denied tax relief due to higher premiums in such cases," it said.

MOODY'S PEGS

'India Inc to witness strong growth in next 12-18 months'

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIA Inc will show significant growth in over next 12-18 months, on account of high commodity price, recovery in demand and vaccination drive, says global rating agency Moody's.

"India's steady progress on inoculation against the coronavirus will support a sustained recovery in economic activity. Consumer demand, spending and manufacturing activity are recovering following the easing of pandemic restrictions. These trends, including high commodity prices, will propel significant growth in rated companies' EBITDA over the next 12-18 months," says Sweta Patodia, a Moody's Analyst.

The rating agency also added that government spending on infrastructure will support the demand for steel and cement. Also, rising consumption, push for domestic manufacturing and benign funding conditions will support new investments.

Moody's has projected that economic growth will rebound strongly in India. It has pegged growth in gross domestic product at 9.3% for FY22 and 7.9% for FY23.

While overall economic sentiment is upbeat, the rating agency did sound a word of caution. If new waves of infections were to occur, it could trigger fresh lockdowns and erode consumer sentiment. Such a scenario would dampen economic activity and consumer demand, potentially leading to subdued EBITDA growth of less than 15-20% for Indian companies over the next 12-18 months.

JSW Energy to move all existing, upcoming renewable biz to new entity

It has laid out a growth plan to reach 20 GW capacity by 2030, with the share of renewable energy in the portfolio increasing to 85%, up from 30% currently.

Given our plans, we are strategically re-organising our Company to more effectively support our growth strategy and to help unlock value for shareholders," said Prashant Jain, Joint Managing Director and CEO of JSW Energy.

Proxy advisory firm flags related-party transaction issues at Asian Paints

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

RELATED-party transactions with Paladin Paints and Chemicals Private Limited, which is owned by promoter directors, have come back to haunt Asian Paints once again as proxy advisory firm InGovern has red-flagged the transaction.

InGovern, in its report, has raised serious allegations of conflict of interest and non-disclosures of the value of related party transactions.

InGovern has alleged that Paladin Paints is not the only related party controlled by the promoters, but there are more. It says that Asian Paints procured goods from other entities/companies that are controlled by promoters, however, it is not clear as to which are these entities and the value of goods procured from these entities.

Paladin Paints and Chemicals is allegedly controlled by Asian Paints promoter Ashwin Dani and his son Malav Dani through a firm called Ria Enterprises, controlled by the Dani family. According to InGovern, Ria Enterprises holds 93.08% in Paladin.

The report went on to say Asian Paints has made inadequate disclosure of value of related-party transactions and logic thereof, with Paladin and other promoter-controlled entities.

"The lack of detailed disclosure and intent of procuring such a high percentage from companies, including Paladin, that are owned by promoters of Asian Paints is strange," says InGovern. It says that in FY2019-20, Asian Paints procured over 5.8% of its raw materials from companies controlled by promoters. Paladin itself formed only 7% of the value of goods purchased from promoter-controlled entities.

Juniors respond in style, score 13 against Canada

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@Bhubaneswar

IN India's first match against France, the latter seemed to be in constant dialogue. The entire XI either seemed to be egging on their colleagues or passing words of advice. In comparison, the Indian team was subdued, almost quiet. Save the goalkeeper Pawan who was a one-man radio unit, the others seemed to be cut off from the rest even if they were all inside one single turf. The lack of talking to each other perhaps contributed to that 4-5 reverse.

On Thursday, though, there was chatter, lots of it. You could hear smattering of hindi right from the first minute. That was one of the big differences as India, playing to remain relevant in the junior World Cup, ran out big winners against Canada. The other big difference was in the scoreline:13-1.

These are the kind of things chief coach Graham Reid would have wanted to see, to see if the team was capable of identifying their mistakes, learning from it and course correcting inside 24 hours.

If they began slowly against France, they were on the money against the Canadians, who it has to be said came into the tournament without any sort of funding or competition to speak of since the pandemic began.

"I am super proud of my boys, they had emptied their tank on the pitch and that's all you can ask for," was how their chief coach, Indy Sehmbi, summed up the game.

Reid will have privately echoed similar thoughts because this was his team giving a positive reaction after a loss. Eight minutes in, both Uttam Singh and Vivek Sagar Prasad had already sounded the board.

The passes were flowing, the press was working and the visitors, boxed in for the majority of the match, had nowhere to turn on multiple occasions. That dominance ultimately showed as they scored six goals in the last quarter alone.

The biggest pluses from an Indian perspective two hours into the tournament is their nous of dead-ball situations. Sanjay, one of the team's four dragflickers, now has two hattricks in consecutive days. However, this isn't a team that just relies on creating penalty corner opportunities.

They are equally adept at working angles for shots on goal, it's one of Araijeet Singh Hundal's strengths according to himself. The 6'2" forward, the other Indian to score a hattrick, conceded as much after the match.

Sindhu, Praneeth enter quarters, Srikanth loses

PTI @Bali

TOP Indian shuttlers PV Sindhu and B Sai Praneeth progressed to the quarterfinals but former champion Kidambi Srikanth made an early exit in the second round of the Indonesia Open Super 1000 tournament here on Thursday.

Sindhu hardly broke a sweat to win the second round clash 21-12, 21-18 against world No. 26 Germany's Yvonne Li in 37 minutes at the USD 850,000 event. In the quarterfinals, the reigning world champion, seeded third, will face South Korea's Sim Yujin. Praneeth staved off a spirited fight from France's world No. 70 Christo Popov, claiming a 21-17, 14-21, 21-19 win in a gruelling match that lasted an hour and 23 minutes. He will meet Olympic champion Viktor Axelsen of Denmark next.

European powers joined by Sporting in CL Round of 16

AP @ London

THE parade of European powers advancing to the Champions League knockout stage was disrupted by Sporting Lisbon completing a stunning turnaround to join them.

Manchester City and Real Madrid are back in the round of 16 after beating teams they lost to in September. Paris Saint-Germain also go through despite their 2-1 loss at City after leading when Kylian Mbappe scored early in the second half.

RESULTS: Group A: Manchester City 2-1 Paris, Club Brugge 0-5 Leipzig; Group B: Liverpool 2-0 Porto, Atlético 0-1 AC Milan; Group C: Sporting CP 3-1 Dortmund, Beşiktaş 1-2 Ajax; Group D: Sheriff 0-3 Real Madrid, Inter 2-0 Shakhtar.

Shreyas makes most of the opening on Day 1

Debutant Shreyas Iyer scored an unbeaten 75 on Day 1 of the 1st Test between India and New Zealand at the Green Park Stadium in Kanpur on Thursday | SPORTZPICS

ASHIM SUNAM @Bengaluru

A full-strength India generally means a strong batting department, which includes the likes of Virat Kohli, KL Rahul among others. Even proven domestic cricketers fail to break open the Test playing XI door with the mountain of runs behind them. The situation has become even more complicated with World Test Championship points in the offing for all series. It means unless there is a forced break, the opportunities are limited for new players.

It is only when seniors opt for rest or players get injured, other options are considered. In fact, it is the combination of both, which helped Shreyas Iyer make his Test debut against New Zealand in the first match in Kanpur on Thursday. Given the competition for places, each opportunity is huge. Even a good outing doesn't ensure you would get to wear the Test whites regularly. But it will surely keep those regulars on their toes and that is what Shreyas did in his maiden Test outing. The Mumbaikar man, who averages 52 in first class cricket, grabbed his opportunity with both hands, scoring an unbeaten 75 to steer India to 258/4 before bad light stopped play on Day 1 at Green Park Stadium.

The 26-year-old only got a chance to feature in the playing XI after Rahul was ruled out of the two-match series. It meant opener Shubman Gill could bat in his regular position while Shreyas was slotted in the middle order. With the stand-in captain, Ajinkya Rahane making it official about Shreyas' debut a day before the game, it helped him prepare mentally too. His half-century came at the right time and gives the selectors and the team management to consider him as an alternate option. With South Africa tour lined-up, his innings will surely put more pressure Rahane (35) and Cheteshwar Pujara (26) who again failed to convert their starts.

Shreyas, who walked into bat after Pujara was dismissed had a lucky escape when his mishit fell in almost no man's land when he was yet to get off the mark. That did not stop him from playing his natural game.

New variant with high mutations detected

South African scientists say the new strain, B.1.1.529, is driving cases; samples of travellers from Botswana, Hong Kong test positive for it

COVID

JOHANNESBURG/PARIS: Scientists in South Africa on Thursday said they had detected a new Covid-19 variant with multiple mutations, blaming it for a surge in infection.

"Unfortunately we have detected a new variant which is a reason for concern in South Africa," virologist Tulio de Oliveira told a hastily-called news conference. The variant, which goes by the scientific lineage number B.1.1.529, "has a very high number of mutations," he said. "It's unfortunately causing a resurgence of infections," he said.

It has also been detected in Botswana and Hong Kong among travellers from South Africa, he said. Health Minister Joe Phaahla said the variant was of "serious concern" and behind an "exponential" increase in reported cases, making it "a major threat".

Daily infections shot to more than 1,200 on Wednesday, up from around 100 earlier this month. Before the detection of the new variant, authorities had predicted a fourth wave to hit South Africa starting around the middle of December, buoyed by travel ahead of the festive season.

The government-run National Institute for Communicable Diseases (NICD) said 22 positive cases of the B.1.1.529 variant have been recorded in the country following genomic sequencing.

It said in a statement Thursday that detected cases and the percentage testing positive are "increasing quickly" in three of the country's provinces including Gauteng, which includes Johannesburg and Pretoria. A cluster outbreak was recently identified, concentrated at a higher education institute in the capital Pretoria, the NICD said.

The new variant is of serious concern. It is likely behind an exponential increase in reported cases, making it a major threat. It is behind the resurgence in cases

South African government

Last year South Africa also detected the Beta variant of the virus, although until now its infection numbers have been driven by the Delta variant, which was originally detected in India. The country has the highest pandemic numbers in Africa with around 2.95 million cases, of which 89,657 have been fatal. Scientists said the new B.1.1.529 variant has at least 10 mutations, compared to two for Delta or three for Beta.

"What gives us some concerns (is) that this variant might have not just have enhanced transmissibility, so spread more efficiently, but might also be able to get around parts of the immune system and the protection we have in our immune system," said researcher Richard Lessells.

So far the variant has been seen spreading especially among young people. But the coming days and weeks will be key to determine the severity of the variant, Lessells said.

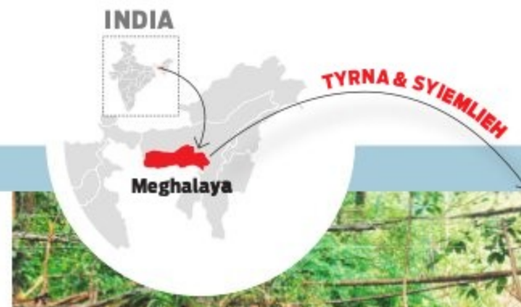
Neutralising the variant is "complicated by the number of mutations this variant" contains, said one of the scientists Penny Moore.

"This variant contains many mutations that we are not familiar with," she added. After a rather slow start to South Africa's vaccination campaign, around 41 percent of adults have received at least a single dose, while 35 percent are fully vaccinated.

Meanwhile, Europe on Thursday reached the grim milestone of 1.5 million coronavirus deaths as nations scramble to tackle a worsening crisis with winter approaching. In response, France accelerated its Covid booster rollout and Germany, with fatalities and infections surging, weighed new measures. With the world braced for the full onslaught of yet another wave, the EU's medicines agency cleared a vaccine for children as young as five.

In Paris, Health Minister Olivier Veran said Covid-19 booster shots, until now only available to people over 65 or with health problems, would be accessible to all adults starting this weekend. From January 15, people over 18 would need to show proof of a top-up vaccine dose to maintain a valid Covid pass, which is required to enter restaurants, bars, gyms and other public venues.

Cause of heavy rains: From June to September, monsoon winds sweep north from the Bay of Bengal, passing over the humid plains of Bangladesh. When these air currents converge at the hilly terrain of Meghalaya, they transform into torrential rains



EXFILE • NATURE

ROOTING FOR NATURAL BRIDGES

By now it's common knowledge that Mawsynram in Meghalaya is the wettest place on earth. But have you ever wondered how a far-flung village in the hilly northeast survives the monsoon onslaught which leaves many a city gasping for breath? What about infrastructure like roads and bridges that invariably get washed away in cities? No such worry in the hilly terrains as the people have dug their roots quite deep and woven them into intricate patterns, too, to double as infra. A look

THE BRIDGE

Bridges in these hilly villages are not made of concrete or metal, but of a single giant fig tree that sits by the riverbank

The aerial roots of Indian rubber fig tree (Ficus elastic) are manually knotted and woven together to form a bridge across flooding rivers

BENEFITS

Besides providing connectivity, these bridges attract tourists and help local people earn an income

These root bridges have regenerative effects on the surrounding environment

The art of bridge building

It takes years to build a bridge of roots. The process follows a pattern:

- Sapling: Of Ficus elastica, a tree that grows abundantly in Meghalaya, in a crossing place is planted
- Roots: The trees develop large roots and then, after about a decade, they sprout secondary aerial roots from further up
- Weaving: The roots are woven on to scaffolding and wheedled across the river
- Implanting: After wheedling it across, it is planted on the other side
- Nature: After the implant, over time, the roots shorten, thicken and produce offshoots called daughter roots, which are also trained over the river
- Care: The builders intertwine these roots with one another or with branches and trunks of the same or another fig tree
- Anastomosis: A system wherein branching systems like leaf vessels, tendrils and aerial roots naturally fuse together and weave into a dense frame-like structure
- Finishing touch: The builders use stones to cover the gaps in root structures. This network of roots matures over time to bear loads

MAINTENANCE | The generations that follow the initial bridge builders maintain the bridge. While only one single person may maintain small bridges, most require the collective effort of families or the entire village, or sometimes several

Vulture bees' evolution into meat eaters

COVID

A bee species in Costa Rice appears to have a taste for flesh, having evolved an extra tooth for biting meat and a gut that more closely resembles those of vultures. Researchers led from the University of California, Riverside compared the gut microbiota of various bee species, including these so-called 'vulture bees'.

They lured vulture bees in with pieces of raw chicken, and found the insects have an unusually acidic gut and microbe species linked with the consumption of flesh. It is believed that vulture bees evolved their meat-eating diet in order to avoid intense competition for nectar and pollen. The vulture bees' diet is not the only way in which they are unusual. Even though they can't sting, they're not defenceless and many species are thoroughly unpleasant.
